The boy's eyes strayed from the rabbits to a flock of pigeons. "Look," he said. "That's an enemy one." He pointed to the one member of the flock that was picking in the dirt on the far side of the barrier. The lit-tle girl stamped her feet a few times, making threaten-ing noises and scaring all the pigeons over the feoce.

"There," she said trium-phantly. "Now they're all enemies."

The ironies of Berlin, whose political division has in 15 years hardeoed ioto the most closely guarded horder in the world, are many and often as sed as a child dividing pigeons into friends and

The depth of the divisioo is more striking for being ex-pressed, on both sides of the wall, in the dialect and ac-cent that belong to this city alone and have survived more than anything else as e mark of unity.

Even the modern slang of West Berlin has reached across the wall, presumably through Western television, which all of East Berlin watches. A West Berliner re-ported with delight hearing an East Berlin boy shout to a friend, "You better move your hike, the hull is pass-ing." "Bull" is nonflatteriog

Foreign workers, or "gues workers" as they are called in the West, have become a part of the East Berlin street scene. They cross for the day from West Berlin, where they are a principal componant of the labor force. East Berlin provides diversion from a place where they earn good wages but find lit-tle social acceptability. It also offers female company.

"It's oot what we bring along," a young Ghanaian said as he lined up to have the East German border po-lice check his passport at the elevated train station on the way back west, "It's the way we dress, and we have money, so we can have a good time."

Eastern and marks are exchanged at par-ity in East Berlio although on the West Berlin free market an East mark is worth about a quarter of the West mark. Despite this unfavorable rate of exchange, money still goes a lot farther in East Berlio, where prices are adjusted to wages that are lower.

And so the lines waiting to go east cootain as many Turks, Yugoslevs, Arabs and Greeks as Germans. They dress to the Western atyle of carefully planned casualness, in pletform shoes, tight jeans and leather, exotic shirts and matching baubles. They are eyed with open admiration by East Berlin teen-agers and with less than hospitality hy the border police.

"Open your jacket," barked the policeman at the fourth and last station in the painstaking East Berlin border procedure, at the swarthy youth who had handed him. the passport of a fellow socialist country, Yugoslavia.

"What do you have io there?" the policeman asked, pointing at an inside pocket. The Yugoslav did not under-atand. "Io there," the police-man said angrily, poking his pencil against the pocket. A package of cigarettes showed over the top. "Show the cigarettes," the policeman demanded and then threw them back on the couoter.

ductal to The New York Times SEOUL, South Korea, June 25 -Foreign Minister Park Tong Jin of South Korea said today that his Government was looking for ways to open what he called "effective communica-tions" with China. His remarks to the National Assembly's For-eign Affairs Committee did not indicate whether this meant full diplomatic relationships.

Mr. Park, however, reitereted the government's view that South Korea was willing to echieve e direct contact with China to discuss, among other subjects, occasional seizure by Chinese vessels of Korean fishing boats operating in the Yel-

Early this month, two fishing ressels, together with 19 crew members, were captured off the Korean coast 280 miles south-west of here. The Chinese, who said the Koreans hed violated their territorial waters, have relaased the ships and their crews. The move caused pleas ent surprises among South Ko-rean officials.

The Atlantic alliance has treated as its "two main functions" the assurance of military security and realistic measures to reduce tensions between East and West. We never considered coofrontation even when im-posed on us hy the other side or containment an end in itself. Nor did we believe that disagreements with the Soviet would automatically disappear On the contrary, the very concept of "détente" has always been applicable only to an adversary rela-tionship. It was designed to prevent competition from sliding into military hostilities and to create the coo-ditions for the relationship to be gradually and prudently

Thus alliance policy toward the East has had two neces-sary dimensions. We seek to prevent the Soviet Union from transforming its mili-tary power into political expansion. At the same time we seek to resolve conflicts and disputes through negotiation, and to strengthen the incenselves and to future genera-tions to seek a world based on something more stable and hopeful than a balance of terror constantly contested. However we label such a policy, it is imposed by the unprecedented conditions of the ouclear age. No statesman can lightly risk the lives of tens of millions. Every American · President after entering office and seeing the facts, has come to President Eisenhower's view that "there is no alternative to peace." Traumatized by War

Our generation has been traumatized by World War II, because we remember that an imbalance of power. This is a lesson we must not forget. Bot neither must we forget the lesson of World War I, when war broke out despite an equilibrium of power. An international structure held together only by a balance of forces will sooner or later collapse in catastrophe. In our time this could spell the end of civilized life. We must therefore conduct a diplomacy that deters challenges if possible and that contains them at tolerable levels if they prove unavoidable; a diplomacy that resolves issues, nurtures restraint and builds cooperation based on mutual

This policy has critics in all our countries. Some take for granted the relative absence of serious crises in recent years, which the policy has helped to hring about, and then fault it for not producing the millenium, which it oever claimed. Some caricature its objectives, portraying its goals in more exalted terms than any of its advocates, and then express dismay at the failure of reality to conform to this impossible standard. They describe de-tente as if it meant the end of all rivalry; when rivalry persists, they conclode that detente has failed and charge-its advocates with deception or naivete. They measure the success of policy toward ad-versaries by criteria that should be reserved for traditional friendships. They use the reality of competition to attack the goal of coexist-ence rather than to illustrate in fact, this policy has never been based on such hope or gullibility. It has always been designed to create conditions in which a cool calculus of interests would dictate restraint rather than opportunism, settlement of conflicts rather than their exacerbation. Western policies can at best manage and shape, not assume aw East-West competition. Strategic Arms Talks not assume away,

A pivot of the East-West relationship is the U.S.-Soviet negotiation on limitation of strategic erms. Increasingly, strategic forces find their function only in deterring and matching each other. A con-tinuing buildup of strategic arms therefore only leads to fresh balances—but at higher levels of expenditures and un-certaioties. In ao era of expanding technological possibilities, it is impossible to make rational choices of force planning without some elements of predictability in the strategic environment. Moreover, a continuing race diverts resources from other needed areas such as forces for regional defense, where imbalances can have serious geopolitical consequences. All these factors have made arms limitation a practical interest of both sides, as well as a factor for stability in the

PRIVATE SCHOOLS

Continued From Page I, Col. 8 known as Section 1981, does oot violate the constitutionally protected rights of free association, or of privacy or of directing the education of one's

"It may be assumed that parents have a First Amendment right to send their chiliren to educational institutions that promote the belief that racial segregation is desirable, and that the children have an equal right to attend such io They do not present any stitutions," the Court sald, in question of the right of a equal right to attend such ioan opinion by Justice Potter private school to limit its Stewart. "But it does not follow student body to boys, to that the practice of excluding girls, or to adherents of a racial minorities from such institutions is also protected by the same principle."

The Constitution, the Court said, "places no value on dis-crimination."

In terms of numbers, the rulng will have nowhere near the impact of the Brown decision, because most children attend public schools and many, if not most private schools disavow racial discrimination, at least officially. 'Freedom Schools'

There will be some practical mpact. In the years after the Brown decision, some 3,500 private, so-called "freedom private. were set up through out the South for children of white parents seeking to avoid tegration. The Southern Independent School Association, representng 375 schools, was one of the parties in the litigation that resulted in today's ruling. It conceded that many of its member schools excluded students oo racial grounds, and argued that they could not coostitutionally be forbidden to do this.

Nonsectarian schools in this groop will now be forced to ad-mit black children, assuming that the children meet the schools' other, nonracial criteria. But the status of such schools that were set up on a religious, or sectarian, basis, is

Should the Court ever be presented with the question of whether today's ruling also ap-plies to religious schools, it would have to decide wbether the prohibition would involve governmental restriction of the ight to freely exercise religion would involve excessive governmental entanglement in religious affairs.

Impact Elsewhere

In view of the church-state relationships that the Court has approved over the years, it would appear that discrimina-tion would be banned, except, perhaps, if it were based solely oo religious beliefs.

The significance of the ruling, though, may perhaps lie as much in the impact it may have in other areas—on the perceptioo that members of minority groups have about the quality of justice lo America and on he ongoing national debate about integration in the schools. President Ford and his Administration have taken oumerous steps lately seeking limits on the use of busing as a tool to desegregate public schools.

Mr. Ford submitted antibusing legislation yesterday.

His Attorney General, Edward H. Levi, is seeking a test case io which to ask the Supreme Court to impose its own limits on court-ordered busing. Mr. Levi tentatively decided recently to intervece in the Supreme Court io the Boston busing case on the side of the antibusing forces, changing his mind only after strong protests had been made by civil rights groups and

The Justice Department had intervened in the case decided today on the side of those challenging discrimination by pri-vate schools. But Mr. Ford, on recent television show, said that he believed parents should be allowed to send their children to private schools that exclude blacks.

HIGH COURT CURBS | Excerpts From Opinions in Private School

WASHINGTON, June 25-Following are excerpts from the Supreme Court's decision written by Justice Potter Stewart, outlowing racial discrimination to private, commercially operated schools, and from the dissenting opinion written by Justica Byron R. White,

MAJORITY OPINION

It is worth noting at the ootset some of the questions that these cases do oot preseot. They do not present any question of the right of a private social organization to limit its membership on racial or any other grocods. particular religious faith, since 42 U.S.C. Sec. 1981 is in no way addressed to such categories of selectivity.

They do not even present the application of Sec. 1981 to private sectarian schools that practice racial exclusion oo religious grounds, Rather. these cases present only two basic questions: Whether Sec. 981 prohibits private, commercially operated, non-sectarian schools from deoying admission to prospective studeots because thay are Negroes, and, if so, whether that Federal law is constitutional as so applied.

A. Applicability of Sec. 1981.

It is now well established that Sec. I of the Civil Rights Act of 1866, 14 Stat. 27, U.S.C. Sec. 1981 (1970), pro-hibits racial discrimination in the making and enforcements of private contracts.

It is apparent that the ra-cial exclusion practiced by the Fairfax-Brewster School and Bobbe's Private School amouots to a classic violation of Sec. 1981. The parents of Colin Gonzales and Mi-chael McCrary sought to enter into contractual relationships with Bobbe's private school for educational services. Colin Goozales' parents sought to enter into a similar relationship with the Fairfax-Brewster School. Under these cootractual relationships, the schools would have received payments for services rendered, and the prospective stu-dents would have received instruction in return for those payments. The educational services of Bobbe's Private School and the Fairfax-Brewster School were advertised and offered to members of the geoeral public. But neither school offered services oo an equal basis to white and nonwhite students. As, the court of appeals held, There is ample evidence in to the schools because of their race." The petitioning schools and school associatioo argued principally that Sec. 1981 does oot reach private acts of racial discrimination.

the record to support the trial judge's factual determio-ations—[that] Colin and Mi-chael were denied admission

It is noteworthy that Congress in enacting the Equal. Employment Opportunity Act of 1972, 86 Stat. 103 as amended, 42 U.S.C. Sec. 2000e et Seq. (1970 Ed. supp. iv), specifically considered and rejected an amendment that would bave repealed the Civil Rights Act of 1866, as interpreted by this court in Jones, insofar as it affords private sector employees a right of action based oo racial discrimination in employment. There could hardly be a clearer indication of Congres sional agreement with the view that Sec. 1981 does reach private acts of racial discrimination. In these circumstances there is no basis for devieting from the well-settled principles of stare decisis applicable to this Court's construction of Federal statutes.

B. Constitutionality of Sec. 1981 as applied The question remains whether Sec. 1981, as applied, volates constitutionally protected rights of free associatioo and privacy, or a par-ent's right to direct the edocation of his children.

1. Freedom of associa-

In N.A.A.C.P. v. Alabama, 357 U.S. 449, and similar decisions, the Court has recognized a First Amendment right "to engage in associatioo for the advancement of beliefs and ideas." That right is protected because it promotes and may well be essectial to the "effective advocacy of both public and private points of view, particularly controversial ones" that the First Amendment is designed to foster.

From this principle it may assumed that parents have a First Ameodmeot right to send their children to edocational institutions that promote the belief that racial segregatioo is desirable, and that the children have an equal right to attend such institutions. But it does not follow that the practice of excluding racial minorities from such institutions is also protected hy the same prin-

In any event, as the court There is no showing that discontinuance of discriminatory admission practices would inhibit io any way the teach-ing in these schools of any ideas or dogma."

2. Parental Rights In Meyer v. Nehraska, 262 U.S. 390, the Court held that the liberty protected by the due process clause of the 14th Amendment includes the right 'to acquire useful knowledge, to marry, establish a bome and bring up childreo," and, concomitant-ly, the right to seed ooe's children to a private school that offers specialized traio-ing—in that case, instruction in the German language. In Pierce v. Society of Sisters, 268 U.S. 510, the Court applied "the doctrice of Meyer v. Nebraska," id., at 534, to hold unconstitutional an Oregon law requiring the parent, guardian, or other person having custody of a child between g and 16 years of age to send that child to public school on pain of criminal liability. The Court thought it "entirely plain that the [statute] unreasonably interferes with the liberty of parents and guard-ians to direct the upbringing and education of children under their control." In Wisconsin v. Yoder, 406

U.S. 205, the Court stressed the limited scope of Pierce, pointing out that it lent "no support to the contention that parents may replace state educational requirements with their own idiosyncratic views of what nowledge a child oceds to be a productive and happy member of society" but rath-"held simply that while state may post standards, it may not preempt the educational process by re-quiring children to attend-poblic schools."

And in Norwood v. Herrison, 413 U.S. 455, the Court once again stressed the "limited scope of Pierce," ld. at 461, which simply "af-firmed the right of private schools to exist and to operapplication to Sec. 1981 infringes oo parental right recognized in Meyer, Pierce, Yoder, or Norwood, No chalfringes lenge is made to the petitiooers' right to operate their private schools or the right of pareots to seed their children a particular private school rather than a public school.

Nor do these cases involve a challenge to the subject matter which is taught at any private school. Thus, the Fairfax-Brewster School and Bobbe's Private School and members of the interveoor association remain presump tively free to inculcate whatever values and standards they deem desirable. Meyer and its prugeny eotitle them to no more.

3. The Right of Privacy While the application of Sec. 1981 to the conduct at issue bere a private school'a adherence to a racially dis-criminatory admissions policy —does not represent govern-mental intrusion into the pri-vacy of the home or a similarly intimate setting, it does implicate parental interests. These interests are related to the procreative rights pro-tected in Roe v. Wade, supra, and Griswold v. Connecticut, supra. A person's decision whether to bear a child and a parent's decision concern-ing the manner in which his child is to be educated may fairly be characterized as exercises of familial rights and responsibilities.

But it does not follow that because Government is largely or even entirely precluded from regulating the child-bearing decision, it is similarly restricted by the Constitution from regulating the implementation of parental decisions concerning a child's education. .

The Court has repeatedly stressed that while pareots have a constitutional right to send their children to private schools and a constitutional right to select private schools that offer specialized instruction, they have no constitutional right to provide their children with private school education unfettered by reasonable Gov-ernment regulation.

DISSENTING OPINION - (Justice White, with whom Justice William H. Rehnquist joins, disseoting.)

We are urged here to extend the meaning and reach of 42 U.S.C. SEC: 1981 so as to establish a general prohi-bition against a private in-dividual or institution refusing to enter into a contract with another person because of that person's race. Section 1981 has been oo the books since 1870 and to so hold for the first time would be contrary to the language of the section, to its legislative history and to the clear dicturn of this Court in the civil rights cases, 109 U.S. 1, 16-17 (1883), almost cootemporaneously with the passage of the statute that the section reaches only discriminations imposed by.

state law. The majority's belated dis-covery of a Congressional purpose which escaped this Court only a decade after the statute was passed and which escaped all other Federal courts for almost 100 years is singularly unpersuaon its face the statute gives "all persons" (plainly including Negroes) the "same rights to make contracts as is enjoyed by white citizens." In an unsigned opinion, the Court rejected the contention that it had been the victim of economic discrimination through a city ordinance that had put it out of business in one section of the city.

The city successfully argued that the community's rights outweigh those of an individual. It contended that the ordinance that put the little company out of business in the French Quarter was necessary to preserve the Quarter's beauty and the contend of the conten charm, which it saw as vital to the city's economy. High Court Says Rule Must Be Relevant to Job

By LINDA CHARLTON

WASHINGTON, June 25 The States have the right to set mandatory retirement ages for their employees so long as the requirement is relevant to the job being performed, the Supreme Court ruled today. The Court's 7-to-I ruling-Justice John P. Stevens took no part in the decision and Justice Thurgood Marshall dis-

chusetts state police.
Colonel Murgia was forced to retire in July 1972, when be reached his 50th birthday. He filed suit, challenging the Massachusetts statute as unconstitutional. The state's age 50 retirement requirement ac cording to Colonel Murgia's at torney, is the lowest age in the ation for state policemen.

The Court, in its unsigned opinion, wrote: "Since physical bility generally declines with age, mandatory retirement at 50 serves to remove from police service those whose fitness for uniformed work presumptively has diminished with age. This clearly is rationally related to the state's objective."

Just before his retirement.
Colonel Murgis took and passed the physical examination required by the Massachutts state police.

the Court said, "perhaps has not chosen the best means" of determining the fitness of over-50 state policemen, but this "is not to say that the objective of assuring physical fitness is not rationally furthered by a maximum age limitation." It added that, on the basis of "rationality," quoting from a previous Court decision, a state does not violate the equal protection clause merely because the classifications made by its laws are imperfect."

.In an unsigned opinion apparently representing the views of seven Justices, the Court upheld the constitutionality, over equal protection arguments, of a New Orleans ordinance that limited the right to be a pushcart vendor in the Vieux Carren section of New Orleans to vendors who had been in business eight years. The Court said that the ordinance was "solely an economic regulation aimed at enhancing the vital role of the French Quarter's tourist-oriented charm in the economy of New Orleans" and that states have "wide latitude" in regulating their economies. Justice Marshall joined only in the judgment. Justice Stevens did not par-ticipate. (New Orleans v. Dukes, No. 74-775).

in two prisoners' cases, one from New York involving an inmate at Attica and one from Massachusetts, the Court declined to accept a major argument of prisoners' rights groups: that as part of due process of law, in-mates should be given bearings before being transferred from one institution to another. In each case, the court reversed the lower Federal appeals court.

In the New York case— Montayne V. Haymes, No. 74-520—the Court ruled that the state law the inmate had no ruled in a Wisconsin case that a union's concerted refusal to work overtime, during negotiations over renewing an expired collective bargaining contract, is peaceful activity that the states may not regulate. (Machinists v. Wisconsin Emp. Rel. Comm'n., No. 75-185).

Concerted refusal to work overtime is neither specifically protected nor prohibited by Federal labor law. In this case the employer filed an unfair labor complaint with the state authorities, and the Wisconsin courts agreed with the employer. The Supreme Court, bowever, found that state regulation of this type of activity would frustrate the intent of Congress as ex-pressed in comprehensive Fed-eral labor legislation. ENVIRONMENT

Ruling unanimously, Court held that Federal appeals courts may not set aside a state's environmental implementation plan, after i has been approved by the environmental protection administrator, on grounds of economic and technological infeasibility. The Court based its ruling on the language and legislative history of the Federal Clean Air Act amendments. It noted that it was not holding that "claims of infeasibility are never of relevance" in formulating plans; instead, it based its ruling in part on the fact that the legslation allows such claims to be considered during formulation of the state implementation plans, (Union Electric Co. v. Finley Files $10 Million Suit, Challenges Kuhn's Authority Baseball's battle of the century bounced into Federal District Court yesterday when Charles O. Finley sued Commissioner Bowie Kuhn for $10 million in damages and asked the court to declare that the commissioner to void the sale of players."

The controversial owner of

the Oakland A's filed bis lawsuit in Chicago one week after Kuhn had nullified the sale of thre of Oakland's hest players—Vida Blue, to the New York Yankees for $1.5 million, and Joe Rudi and Rollie Fingers, to the Boston Red Sox for $1 million apiece.
. Kuhn said at the time that it was not "in the best in-terests of baseball" for Finley to dismantle the powerful team that had won five straight Western titles in the American League, four straight pennants and three straight World Series. His action triggered the most clamorous dispute in a long series of legal crises that have been embroiling the sport, and Finley replied yes-terday with a blockbuater of his own.

He named the commission-er as the chief defendant along with the National League, the American League, the American League, tha "cabinet" known as the Major League Execu-tive Council, the Yankees and the Red Sox. And he charged them with a wide-ranging list of offenses that included breach of contract, violation of the Sherman Antitrust Act, "deprivation of due process," denial of equal protection, "inducing breach of contract," conspiracy to deprive Finley of money from the sale of his stars and several civil rights violations. He aked the court to settle the issue by ordering Kuhn to rescind his decree of last week, directing Finley to "re-turn the players to the Yankees and Red Sox, and to force those teams to pay the $3.5 million in the original sale. Then, taking dead aim at Kuhn, his long-time adversary during eight years as commissioner, Finley asked the court to order triple damages and to find that Kuhn lacked the authority to void the sales of reply from the commissioner to the massive lawsuif, which was filed in United States District Court in Chicago, where Finley makes his home base, and which was assigned to Judge Frank McGarr. But the owner of the A's, striking on a broad front, also at-tacked any motion that the commissioner has immunity from such lawsuits by agreement of the 24 club owners

"That clause," Finley said, "does not give the commissioner carte blanche 10 do anything he wishes to do and to run and hide behind that rule. So we do not feel that the rule applies in this case at all.

"We are not looking for support from anyone. We don't think we need any. But the Yankees, as we understand it, also are filing a lawsuit this week."

Finley's Reply

Even while the baseball world was hracing for the escalating showdown over Kuhn and Finley were husy yesterday exchanging fire over a second dispute. In that one, Kuhn noted Thursday that the A's had "taken back" the three players but bad sat them on the hench. So he ordered Finley to "re-move any restraints" against using them in games or face new penalties. Finley-maintained that the players were "in limbo" because their legal status was unclear and he could not assume the risk of injuring somebody else's property. Then he whipped off a long telegram in legal language Kuhn in these words: "To what restraints do you have reference? I have never songht to restrain the players. To the contrary, I have informed each player that he may make use of all team facilities, equipment, uniforms and workouts. If you intended to order the players to participate in Oakland games, please clarify:

ting home runs the way Henry Aaron is supposed to hit home runs. For nearly the first 10 weeks of the current season, he had hit only two. But as he returned to Yankee Stadium last night for the first time since the 1958 World Series, the 42-year-old designated hitter had seven home runs, a 255 hatting average, and 2I runs hatted in. Some of his recent home runs were stroked with a hat borrowed from George Scott, the Brewers' first baseman. It's the heaviest bat Henry Aaron has ever used.

"It's 37½ ounces and 36 inches long," he said. "I've always used a 33-ounce, 35-inch bat. But the pitchers were getting me out on the curveball away. I wanted a longer bat with more wood at the end. The bat helped me I hit one of my homers off a good pitch, down and away. I think George's bat is the heaviest in the big leagues. I think Richie Allen is next with 37 ounces. With a beavy bat, I just concentrated on hitting the ball through the middle. I don't use it all the time. It's so heavy it tires you out. I can't generate the bat speed every night with it."

Not Tempted to Continue

Henry Aaron hit 12 bome runs and batted 234 last season. He hit only four bomers over the last three months. But he thinks he's more comfortable in the American League this season.

"I don't feel like a stranger now," he said. "I know the pitchers better and I know the umpires better. You can't be choosy over here. You've got to swing. One pitch will be a ball, the next time the same pitch will be a strike. Some of the umpires aren't consistent. Back in the National League I used to go up and I knew I could get my pitch, but over here, I never know. I've adjusted to being a dh, too. Before batting practice, I put on a sweat shirt and run three laps from foul line to foul line, then do 75 to 100 pickups. Last year I just ran with the pitchers before a game. It wasn't enough. And during a game now, I try to keep a bat in my hand in the dugout."

But his recent streak of home runs hasn't tempted Henry Aaron into thinking about playing at age 43 next

"This is definitely my last year," ona of the baseball players said. "I just want to have a good year and go out

Liquori has been America's best miler since 1969. Last year, he took up the 5,000, which ia a little longer than three miles. Today, in the United States Olympic trials, his injury forced him out of a · 5000-meter heat almost balfway through the race.

There were winners on this, the seventh day of the nine-day meet at the University of Oregon's Hayward Field. The 14,200 spectators saw Maxie Parks of West Los Angeles, Calif., win the men's 400-meter final in 45.58 seconds; Sheila Ingram of Washingtoo the women's 400 in 52.69; Arnie Robinson of San Diego the men's long jump at 27 feet 5½ inches

(wind alded) and Lynne Winbigler of South Eugene, Ore., the women's discus throw at This meet will qualify three athletes in most events for the Olympic Games next month in Montreal. But the story bere is often not who qualifies hot who does not. the meet was Steve Williams, America's best sprinter, who had problems with the bamstring muscle behind the right thigh. Liquori's problem was the left hamstring.

Four weeks ago, while running on a golf course, Ll-quori overextended his left ieg and suffered a small tear in the hamstring.
"But this is an Olympic year," he said, "so I bad to keep on fraining. I aggravated it two weeks ago in the A.U. meet. It has never really healed. I said all along really heated, I said an along it was fine because you can't win races like this if the

And if I did make It, I would have destroyed the leg at Montreal. But the log was coming along, and if they had held this race next weekend I would bave had no problem." Liquori comes from Cedar Grove, N.J. He was a cham-pion miler at Essex Catholic High Schol in Newerk and at Villanova University. Now he is 26 years old and lives in Gainesville, Fla., where he owns and franchises stores that sell athletic equipment. He speaks softly, but be could not answer one postrace question.

New York horseplayers who have been making legal offtrack bers on the Kenmely Derby for six years may have to find an illegal prokie the next time around. Under a pro-posed bill that gained ground in Race Congress vesterday, interstate offtrack wagering would be benned in all cases except where a current contract existed between two states. An agreement between New York and Connecticut is the only such deal, and that exemption would expire in 1981.

The measure, approved by a vote of 18-7 by the House Commerce Committee and sent to the full House, would prohibit any state from using horso races in another state for its own offtrack betting

Aside from ending nut-of-state action by New York's various offfrack enterprises, the legislation would appear to anatonice construction of thoroughbred and/or harness tracks in Connecticut.

Paul Screvane, president of New York City's Offtrack Beiting Corporation, critiprotection for illegal bookies." He said it would gravely injure" the public

Fry projecting the market for Leehmaking on interstate ricing." Screvane said, "this probabilion would greatly in-crose the revenues derived and the New York Pimes WESTPORT, Conn., June 25 -Warleck, a consistent 8-year-old brown gelding, moved into the lead for the amateur-owner jumper cham-pionship at the Fairfield County Horse Show today. The four-day show at the

Fairfield County Club ends Sunday, Owned and ridden by Edward B. Hayes Jr. of Rocky Hill, Conn., a recent graduate of the junior division, War-lock defeated four other horses in a jump off. He was timed in 32:358 seconds; Krishna, owned and handled by Julie Miller Bodeck, was second in 35:127. Varlock, who was second in the first class yesterday, now has eight points toward the fittle.

Nicole Buskin of Scarsdale,
NAY, won her fourth Mielay Trophy of the year and qualified for the national finals this fall at the National Horse Show.

A Meaning the first of the first state of the first state to accept wagers on five spe-cial out-of-state races each year, as well as on regular out-of-state thoroughbred events if no New York thor-oughbred track is operating at the thne.

In recent years, OTB has had agreements with tracks in Florida and Maryland, in-cluding Pimlico, where the Preakness is run. However, the Maryland State Racing Commission refused to approve the Preakness contract this year, so there was no offtrack action in New York on the second leg of racing's Triple Crown.

Since 1971, its first year, OTB has accepted separate-pool wagers on the Keotucky Derby without the approval of Churchill Downs, the track where the race is beld. The city OTB handle on this year's Derby was $2.8 million, and an additional $1.1 million was bet on the race at other offtrack offices in Since April 29, offtrack shops in Connecticut have heen taking wagers on horse races at New York tracks. The daily average handle at t1 parlors in 10 cities and lowns has now reached $193,000.

Secarate parimutuel pools currently being run on flat races at Belmont Park and harness events at Roosevelt Raceway.

According to a spokesman for the New York Racing Association, revenue from the arrangement goes to the heckstretch fund for stable-hands at Aqueduct, Belmont and Saratoga. It amounts to nine-tenths of I per cent of the Connecticut handle, and the five-year contract runs to

The exemption for the New Yerk-Connecticut operatioo was contained in an amendment prepared by Representative Anthony Toby Moffett, Democrat of Concecticut, Earlier, opponents of interstate wagering had used some parliamentary maneuvering to avoid a vote on an amendment by Representa-tive John M. Murphy, Demoerat of new York.

The Murphy proposal would have allowed inter-state wagering If the state with the race tracks agreed to permit its races to be used.

At Belmont ... Optimistic Gal, the runner-up in the first two parts of the N.Y.R.A.'s triple crown for 3-year-old fillies, is fav-ored to win the third leg today. She is listed as an 8-5 choice against nine rivals in the 60th runoing of the Coaching Club American of Colorado Springs, the defending champion, 4 and 3, today and reached the final of the British women's amateur golf championship. Tomorrow Miss Panton will play the 18-hole final against Alison Sheard of South Africa, who eliminated the favorite, Deborah Massey, a 25-year-old American ski instructor, from Bethlehem, Pa., at the 20th hole. Miss Panton, a geography student at Edinburgh University, gave a superb exhibition in defeating Mrs. Syms. After the turn she played six holes in four under par. She had a run of four successive 3's from the ninth, two of them birdies, and was two under par when the match ended on the 15th green. The Scot gained the semifinals by beating Jennie Lee Smith on the final hole.

y had beaten Anne-Marie Palli of France. 6 and 5, to gain the semifinal, Against Miss Sheard she failed io a chance for victory on the 18th when she missed a 41/2-foot putt. The 19th was halved but then, at the 20th, Miss Sheard holed from 15 feet for a winning birdie.

Mr. Ferguson, naturally, said he felt a bit embarrassed about the whole thing. "I apologized to the police for bothering them about nothing," be said. "They told me they get these calls all the time. That morning, one of them said, he had been at a factory. A box had arrived there with a strange piece of metal sticking out of it, it looked like it might be the plunger of a bomb. Linda Jeckson, the young woman who delivered the package, was still amused a couple of days later by what bad nappened.

"I spent Tuesday afternoon going around to several adertisiog agencies and publishing firms, dropping off the packages, she said. The first time I knew anything was wrong was Wednesday morning. There was a mes-sage on my recorder from Mr. Ferguson telling me what had happened."

Miss Jackson, a slim blonde of almost daunting chic, formerly worked for Vogue and in the New York office of Neiman-Marcus, the famous Dallas store. She was mildly put off by the fact that the shopping bag in which she carried the boxes had been regarded as corroborative evidence of possible kookiness.

"When I got the message
I called the bomb squad," she said, "I told them what had happened and I asked them if they didn't think they or I ought to notify the other places where I bad heeo to tell them the boxes weren't harmless.

"I've picked out such beautiful gifts," she said, display-ing slim silver peos, rich leather wallets and folders and smooth silk scarves. "Most of them are at below retail. And I'd like to get U.P.L as a client."

The Opera: Tasteful 'Pique Dame' Sung at Spoleto.

By HAROLD C. SCHONBERG Special to The Her York Times SPOLETO, Italy—The 19th Festival of Two Worlds, better known as the Spoleto Festival opened this week at the Teatro Nuovo, with a performance of Tchaikov-sky's opera "La Dama di Picche." In the original Russian, this would be "Pikova Dama," better known to aficionados as "Pique Dame" or The Queen of Spades."
The festival will run 19 days, which is par for the course, and will also take in aspects of many of the arts – drama, chamber music, solo concerts, painting, mime, ballet and son et lumière. That also is par for the course. But one aspect of Spoleto, at least to this stranger, has not generally been com-mented upon. That is cooking in general, and cooking with truffles in particular,

It so happens that Spoleto is in the heart of the black-truffle area. The black truffle is a delicacy of exquisite subtlety and in the United States, of fearsome cost. Truffles are not exactly given away bere either, but as against New York, the prices are minimal. Connoisseurs, or plain gluttons, like cer-tain music critics one could mention, can guzzle from morn to night on the likes of spaghetti with truffles, scallopine with truffles, truffled omelets or strengozza (a local pasta) with truffles. But, to return to musical matters, the Tchaikovsky opera was given at a theater that is a bit older than a hundred years, and resembles a baby La Scala. The Teatro Nuovo seats about 900, which makes it a tiny theater even by European standards. But the pit has been extended under the stage to accommodate a very large orchestra, and the backstage facilities are reportedly up to dale. Thus a sophisticated kind of opera can be giveo.

Professors As Recruiters of the American Association of University Professors at the

There were many fine things about "Pique Dame" (to use the familiar French terminology). Chief among them was the direction, production and costumes by Filippo Sanjust, In an age where stage directors are insisting that they are more important than the composer Sanjust was content with quiet, naturalistic, logical and ungimmicked direction. Everything was tasteful—the poetic period sets and costumes, the direct continuity of expression, the use of gesture to build to total theater. Throughout the performance there was a full realization of the feeling of underlying menace suggested by music and text.

Naturally, relatively little could have come of this without a cast fully responsive to the director's ideas. Spoleto has put together that kind of cast-s cast of singing actors very much in the New York City Opera or even Broadway tradition. Certainly Jack Trussel as Ermanno scored a dramatic triumph. He is a California-born singer with a strong voice, and his characterization of Ermanno, the officer with gambling fever was positively brilliant. Every movement was carefully con-sidered, and the conception achieved a gestalt in which there was not one false or unconvincing movement. There may be singers who are better vocalists than Mr. Trussel (though his powerful, rather hard voice took care of the major requirements of the role), but none in our day has acted Ermanno with more chilling effect.

There was one surprise in the cast—the legendary so-prano Magda Olivero as the Countess. As might be expected from an artist of her stature, she found a few things in the role that others have ignored. One was a certain latent sexual relationship between her and Hermann: understated, but strongly suggested. This is a character role, and Miss Olivero sang it with a voice that, quite properly. had more dramatic than vocal authority. But, even with her diminished vocal powers, she is a more satisfactory singer than many half her age. The Lisa was Patricia Craig who, like Mr. Trussel, has a voice notable more for clarity and power than warmth. Lisa is hard to do; she is the only really negative figure in the opera. Dramatically, Miss Craig was admirable. Among the other fine singers in the cast were Andrees Kouloum-bis as Tomski, Alberto Rinaldi as Jeletski and Wilma Borelli as Paolina. Guido Ajmone-Marsan conducted. He is a 20-year-old Italian who has been trained in America, and he goes about his work with a great dea! of temperament and competence. The orchestra players. all young people, are products of American conservatories. There were a few slips dusing the course of the evening, but the playing had genuine alermess and vitality. There is talk of taking thus production to Charleston. S. C., next May, when the American part of the Spelere Festival is inaugurated. Americans will be in for a treat. In certain respects, notably in the dramatic elements, this "Pique Dame" has it all over the Bolshoi production that recently was seen in New York and Washing-

Basic. By RICHARD EDER

The best thing that can be iaid about "The Omen" is that very few viewers will want-to walk out. They will stay, but they will feel ₹oolish.

A member of the "Exorcist" thilly, it is a dreadfully filly film, which is not to say that it is totally bad. Its torrors are not horrible, its errors are not terrifying, its violence is ludicrous—which hay be an advantage-but f does move along.

Movies about Salanic pos-ression do not depend for their effectiveness on making their central device con-fincing. They should, how-ever, make all the details surrounding this device so lausible that when the Thing appears the audience's kepticism has gone to sleep. It was this peripheral credi-

American Guild of Organists Holds Fast-Paced Convention

By ALLEN HUGHES

Io 1896, when the United States was only 120 years old, a group of organists got to gether in New York and founded the American Guild of Organists. Its purpose was to establish and maintain standards of professional attainment for organists and to elevate their status, oot only in the churches, where most of them were employed, but in the general music world as well.

For nearly half a century, the guild followed a rather listless existence, but with the end of World War II, energetic young organists and the guild began to stir.

Sessions Are Limited Stars of Convention

This week, in Boston, the octagenarian guild was proving to be an uncommonly lively citizen of the performing aris world. About 2,200 of its more than 17,000 members were attending the national biennial guild convention, busying them selves with an extraordinary variety of musical matters.

If the day did not begin with a seminar on electronic music (led by composer Daniel Pinkham) it might start with one on the interpretation of French Baroque organ music (led by André Isoir, titular organist of the Church of Saint-Germain-des-Près in Paris).

Theater: 'Hearst' Opens

The Patricia Hearst jury and the playwright Mark J. Dunan agree on one point at least: that Miss Hearst's participation in the armed actions of the self-styled Symbionese Liberation group was voluntary. It was, in other words, a conversion. Mr. Dunau's play "Hearst," Reproducing Pipe Organ autounique four-manual Welte which is being done at the Performing Garage, 33 Woos-ter Street, explores that con-version. It attempts to say what went on between the matically recreates perform-ances of leading organists from 1890 to 1931," what went oo between the time she was brought to the group's "safe house" at gunpoint and the time she left it, a self-proclaimed guerrilla. The organ equivalent of the player piano, the Welte device makes possible the revival of performances recorded oo rolls The attempt is not a suc-

Gigout played Schumann's Etude (Op. 56, No. 5), Farnam performed move-ments from organ symphonies by Widor and Vierne and Mr. clumsy construction and some amateurish perform-ances that make the writing even more stilted than it is, we are left in considerable confusion about the author's Goss-Custard interpreted Lem-mens's "The Storm." It seemed appropriate that this event got intentions and without much incentive to peneirate them.

Miss Hearst is dragged in

Miss Hearst is dragged in at the start, cuffed about, mocked, and subjected to a series of lectures about the injustices of the American economic and political system and the specific role of the Hearst family within the system. At the same time, she watches her parents trying to Op Odyssey' Dance, Linked to Sculpture, OpenEyeProduction watches her parents trying to bargain with her captors on The possibilities of dance movement related to sculp-tural objects might initially seem unlimited, but are in deciding to throw her lot in with the Queen of Hearts — the quality of the conversion is trivialized. Essentially she comes across as a spoiled, petulant woman, who, con-vinced that her parents can't or won't help her, goes over to the stronger side — i.e., her captors — and quickly adopts all their mannerisms.

This coofficts dramatically, if not logically, with the generally sympathetic treatment Mr.! Dunau gives to the S.L.A..'s political intentions. At least for most of the play; at the end there is a kind of coda that suggests that the group's leader, Dooald De Freeze, may have been a police ageot.

The actors, who worked with Mr. Dunau at Antioch College, show their inexperi-ence. They stamp around ence, They stamp around and posture. No doubt the S.L.A. did, too, but they were also real people in a real mess. We don't get any of that. JAKARTA — Ten years ago driven by bunger and a van-ishing demand for the ancient craft she learned from ber mother - who learned from her mother before her-Napsiah left ber village near Pekalongan io central Java, and moved to the capital, Ja-

Today, she works 12 hours a day with more than 100 other craftsmen in a stifling bamboo sback with earth floors. carefully stenciling intricate designs in hot wax onto the fine cotton cloth that will become batik.

She is one of a sbrinking number of women who remember the art. Her children have never taken the trouble to learn it. It is an art that is falling victim to machinemade imitations at home and cheap copies abroad.

Napsiah's eyesight is fail-ing from the long hours of finely detailed work under the dim light that cuts through the wax furnes as she squats nn the hard floor. And husiness being what it is these days, her hoss does not know how much longer she will be able to employ Nap-siah or any of ber co-workers.

There are new batik designers today, men such as Iwan Tirta, who works with such international names in fashion as Oscar de la Renta and Mary McFadden. But even they are fighting a los-ing battle; they are convinced their experiments with new fabrics and the new tech-niques are the only thing that is keeping the industry alive. Ancient Craft

The basic technique of hand-drawn batik is the same as it was centuries ago. A small pipe-like bamboo stylus filled with molten wax and tapering tn a fine metal point is still used to trace the designs on the bare cloth. The cloth is then dipped in the vat of dye; where the wax has been traced, the color is omitted. The wax is then removed and the next color stencil is traced on,

For each color, an entirely new series of wax tracings is necessary and for detailed patterns it is a tedious and lengthy process.

The problem facing the in-dustry began about five years ago when a group of Chinese entrepreneurs brought screen printing to Indonesia, setting up batik factories that can turn out in a day 2,000 pieces of cheap batik cotton with 10 lahorers instead of the 200 pieces that the 150 workers can produce in Sida Mukti factory where Napsiah lahors. These new batik mills spread the fame of batik across Hong Kong and Japan to Europe, and the United States. As its popularity grew, it soon became obvious that few but the most educated connoisseurs could tell the difference between Napsiah's skilled work and the cheap imitations that the buge textile mills of Japan, Hong Kong and Taiwan be-gan knocking off.

But a very real difference there is. Batik came to Indonesia more than 1,000 years ago—probably from India or southern China and the craftsmen in the hills nf Central Java immediately be-gan to refine and adapt it.

Individual Meanings

Individual Meanings

The designs gradually acquired their own intricate meanings; the Parang patterns, reserved for the royal courts of Jogjakarta and Surakarta, indicated the precise rank of the wearer; the Siokukti design, worm hy the bridal couple on the wedding night, symholized good wishes and fortune; the gold batiks of Kumudaretna, with their closely entwined designs of plants and leaves, told of wealth.

In the copies from abroad,

In the copies from abroad, much of the detail work is lost. The screen printed cloth is printed only on one side instead of the double-sided matched pattern of true baffk. As a result, tha color and density are far less vivid and, while each piece is more uni-form, it loses some of the in-tensity of the hand-done va-

In the hand-drawn batik no two pieces are identical. There are no regular repeats of the patterns, they repeat only as the mind and eye of the artist

"In the old days, the aris-tocracy provided the taste and the finesse, the lower classes produced the skill," said Iwan Tirta, who trained as a lawyer until he "rediscovered my heritage" and became one of Indonesia's leading contemporary designers.

Today, though, the lower classes do not possess the skill any more," Mr., Tirta said sadly, "and the upper classes have gone into eclipse. So I bave had to step into the shoes of the aristocracy. After all, aristocracy to me is only a state of mind."

To try to preserve what is left of his heritage, Mr. Tirta a 40-year-old man who himself favors baby blue voile shirts, hegan traveling the world to sell the idea of the original batik to design-

The Not-So-Terrible Gets Jump on Garden

By RICHARD W. LANGER

The toad suffers from bad press. Even in his best and probably only leading role, as star of "Wind in the Willows," the toad's brilliance is somewhat overshadowed.

His kissing cousin, the frog romps through cartoon features and European fairy tales as a perfectly charming little creature. In fact, when it comes to kissing, is there a little girl who hasn't at least once contemplated giving a tentative peck to a passing frog, just in case it might turn into a prince? But a toad? Who would risk getting warts on their lips?

What set me to thinking about the toad's image problem was the appearance of one of these creatures on the steps of my study early one evening.

He-B. Toad, as I dubbed him, the fellow being brown-sat motionless on the cool concrete. As I myself sat down on the stoop, his bulging eyes, shimmering cold, winked at me in a most friendly fashion. Technically, the toad has nictitatious eyelids. This does not mean that he is particularly adversely affected by the billows of smoke from my pipe, but rather that his eyelids come up from below instead of dropping down in the manner to which we are more accustomed. It makes for an interesting wink, and

Unlike the equally which spends its life h toad is a land dwelle phase. Since be tends 1 garden, with or witho by far the largest perce insects injurious to the It's not the eyes of the t to a gardener, but that hearty appetite.

Now, mind you, the The toad's particular fa preciation of earthworn intestines of the garde perbaps was what drew Shakespeare's attention to the jewel-like eyes it may be noted that the rest of Toad did not fare as well under his pen. Since he appeared to be going nowhere, I picked up B. Toad up for a closer look. Immediately I was greated by that wet feeling with which fathers of young babies are so familiar, discovering on occasion that their application of diapers has not come up to spec.

In the case of the toad, however, the dampness is most apt to be a glandular secretion. It comes from the "warts," perticularly those two bumps above and hind the ears, known as parotid glands. The secretion is milky white and poison-ous to most animals when swallowed. But it does not cause warts. However, should it happen to get into the observer's eyes, or should one risk a kiss in the bope of stumbling on at least a baronet or lesser industrialist in a position of influence, the burning sensation is most painful. It is always best to wash one's hands after handling one of these creatures.

Unlike his mucid aquatic doppelgänger, the frog, a toad's skin is perfectly dry. The various impalatable secretions he releases when frightened and his coldness are what for centuries caused people to imagine the amphibian slimy. Quite the opposite, the skin of a toad is so dry that it absorbs water like blotting paper—which is the way the toad taks his liquids, for he cannot drink in the more customary fashion.

What brings the toad to mind here is Logan Pearsall Smith's unfamiliar quotation (almost all quotes involving toads are unfamilier): There is a toad in every social dish, however well they cook it."

This was the provision that would prevent the continued

Quiet Rite Honors Custer Battle

NEAR TWO MOONS' RANCH, Mont, June 25 — One hundred years ago, George Armstrong Custer, commander of the Seventh Cavalry, met a bloody, heroic, perhaps unnecessary death with his troops atop a hill near the Little Bighorn River. At the same time, Philip

Rising Sun, a 15-year-old Cheyenne brave, watched clouds of dust billow up from the battle on that same grassy knoli. Today, Custer's grand nephew sat quietly through a memorial service for war. dead at the Custer Battlefield National Monument, while the grandson of Philip Rising Sun proodly held a victory dance with hundreds of indians on his ranch 25 miles away. So passed the centennial anniversary of the Battle of Little Bighorn, also known as Custer's Last Stand, It is an event that in some ways epitomizes the contradictions that exist to this day in the relationship between white men and red.

Low-Key Celebration For most Americans, it was probably just another historical date in a year filled with more than enough. But for many Indians, especially Sioux, Cheyenne and Arapahoe (whose ancestors made up the army against Custer), it is the only major anniversary worth celebrating this year. They feel that to bonor the Bicentennial would be a little like the Japanese celebrating V-J

Day. The National Park Service, which maintains the battlefield, held deliberately lowkey commemorations vesterday and today. Col. land," Mr. Two Moons was saying this afternoon, "because this was right along Custer's path."

As a Sioux leader ex-plained, "100 years ago, our people didn't have time to bold a victory celebration." Not long after sunrise this morning, several hundred In-dians led by a Sioux chief, Frank Fools Crow, held a prayer service at the battle field. At Two Moons' ranch, there was another ceremony, in which Virgil Killstraight, Sioux leader, proclaimed, We have survived 100 years of genocidal policy.' Mr. Killstraight pointed out how short-lived was the Indian victory at Little Bighorn in 1876, Just 14 years later, a large band of Sioux was massacred at Wounded Knee, S.D., effectively ending active Indian resistance to the white man's occupation of Land Threatened Nor were the Indian descendants of the victors over Custer certain that the man's lot had improved that much since 1876.

True, some of the most blatant prejudices against In-dians have died out in most communities. But Indian speakers were quick to note to Indians today is in danger of takeover by mineral-hungry corporations.

Indians are still largely wards of the state. The Federal Government spends $1.6 billion a year on reservation programs, and the Bureau of Indian Affairs alone has a budget of $798 million. Yet the vast majority of the 792,730 Indians counted in the 1970 census are still poor, underemployed and badly educated. About 42 percent of them live in the slums of the country's cities. Indian leaders worry about retaining their customs, preserving their culture and regaining their sovereignty. We lived here thousands of years before Europeans even knew we existed," said Louis Bad Wound of the Lakota Treaty Council, It is a Sioux organization that seeks the return of the Black Hills, a region in South Dakota and Wyoming that the Federal Government gave to the Sioux in an 1868 treaty, then took away after gold was discovered in it. Want Freedom to Live "Our people had great adaptability to the past and I'm sure we would in the future," Mr. Bad Wound said. We're not talking about a buffalo economy. What we're asking for is that you back up and let us live. Our land has the richest gold mine in the world. It could support a lot of people." But Mr. Bad Wound added. "It's a constant struggle to keep nur heritage, our lan-guage." His group wants Washingtoo to treat the lndians as a separate nation, as Mexico and Canada arc treated.

Plea for Peace

Austin Two Moons had a simpler wish for the next 100 years of American-Indian relations—"to have all ccople be free from these wars, to have all races be free and happy, to have the younger generation keep cur culture but also to have a better education, so they'll know how to keep our land."

Russell Means, the same times fiery American Indian Movement leader, was diplomatic, almost optimistic. He quoted an old chief who said, We may be brothers after all. We shall see,"

As recited in a prayer this morning by Mr. Means, the Indians believe that Mother Earth rules human destiny. If she was on anyone's side today, it was hard to tell which, it rained intermittent ly, drenching all the memorial-service speakers and forcing the postponement of the dances on Mr. Two Moons's muddy grounds.

Accepts Proposal Fought by Environmentalists

Special to The New York Times

HELENA, Mont. June 25-In a major setback for environmentalists today, a consortium of five Pacific Northwest utilities received permission to build two large coal-fired power gara erating plants at Colstrip. 2 small town in southeastern Montana.

The State Board of Natural Resources and Conservation .. voted, 4 to 3, to allow the utilities to construct two 700 megawatt plants and transmission lines, a project estimated to cost $1 billion. The decision came more than three years after the utilities applied for permission under a state !a!! reguloting the siting of power plants. The two proposed plants, known as Colstrip Units 3 and 4 because two others have been built there, have attracted national attention as the fineal point of biter debate over the future use ef the hilliens of tons of cig! buried in southeastern Montana. Opponents of the project advocate shipping the coal by railroad to the areas needing efectricity so that Montana would not face the enviconmental damage caused by burnno the coal at Colstru. The utilities have said that it ,5 more economical to convert coal into electricity at generaling clants near the strip min-u at Colstrip.

Appeal Probable

Opponents are expected to ioneal the board's decision in Federal or state court, but their lawyers were noncommical today, saying that they needed time to review the decision. The inponents include the Northern Cheyenne Indian tribe, two state agencies and an organization of ranchers.

After rejecting an attempt to kill the project on another four-in-three vote, the Board of Natural Resources imposed 14 conditions the utilities must meet to build the plants and lines. The conditions require the companies to pay for the operation of stations to monitor the impact of the facilities on the air and water.

J. L. Pelerson, of Butte, an attorney for the utilities, sai: that the conditions would greatly increase the cost of Colstrip 3 and 4, but he was unable to estimate by how much. A stipulation requiring the utili-ties to build a pond capable of helding a 50-day supply of water for the plants will raise costs by more than $10 million alone, he sald.

FORD SAYS AGNEW IS WRONG ON JEWS

Criticizes Comments Made In Novel and Interviews

WASHINGTON, June 25 (AP)

:-Presideot Ford says that for-mer Vice President Spiro T. Agnew's recent remarks about Jews 'are wrong, both substan-tively and morally, and they struck me as an unsavory footnote to a chapter in our history that would best remain closed." Mr. Ford made the comment Monday in a letter, made public today by the White House, to Seymour Graubard of the Anti-Oefamation League of B'nai B'rith. The league said Mr. Graubard had asked about Mr. Agnew's remarks, which the former Vice President made in his oovel, 'The Canfield Dedision," and in interviews about the book.

The league said Mr. Agnew's remarks maligned Israel, Zion-ists and American Jews. It accused him of expressing "anti-Semitic canards."

In the novel, Mr. Agnew refers to Jewish cabals and Zionist lobbles. He said in inter-views promoting the book last month that neither he nor the. novel was anti-Semitic.

Meets With Delegates

Also today, Mr. Ford told a group of Republican National Convention delegates from West Virginia that if he got his party's nomination, a major tocus of his fall Presidential campaign would be an attack

Mussolini: Circuses, No Bread

By ALDEN WHITMAN

MUSSOLINI'S ROMAN EMPIRE. By Denis Mack Smith. 322 pages. Viking Press. $12.95. Many Americans, thinking about Benito

Mussolini, perceive him aomehow aa less malevolaot than Adolf Hitler on the ground that there was no bolocaust in Italy, Readers of Mr. Mack Smith's splendid book will be snown that II Duce was fully as geno-cidal as Der Führer; a Caesar (and not made of sawdust) who blithely consigned hundreds of thousands of Italians to their deatha in a vain search for imperial glory. Not only did Mussolini use the bloom of Italian youth as cannoo fodder in Spain, Albania, North Africa and Ethiopia, but he elso impoverished the peoples of Italy in hia foreign vectures by lowering their liv-ing standards from 1930 through World

Tracing the development of Mussolini's foreign policy from his advent to power. m 1922 to his ignominious defeat in 1943, Mr. Mack Smith notes that in the early years Mussolini borrowed his nationalist ideology from the largely intellectual National Party, only gradually evolving a more personal policy. This consisted at first of a fairly modest dream of Italy (and himself) as master of the Adriatic. And in the Corfu incident of 1923, he discovered he could take advantage of the disarray of the other Europeao powers in asserting Italian protection over a tiny but strategically placed island at the mouth of the

Cultivated a Myth

Theo, for several years, Mussolini did his best to create international nuisances that he might exploit for his benefit, while trumpeting the results as glorious victories for the Italian flag. One of the foremost historians of Italy writing in English, Mr. Mack Smith ia at pains to demonstrate how assiduously Mussolini cultivated the myth of a powerful Italy.

The myth was essential, Mr. Mack Smith believes, to the assertion of ao Italian role in Europe in which Mussolini would play the role of statesman and to the maintecance of Fascist authority at bome. Locarno, Lausanne, Fiume, the Albanian protectorate under King Zog were all necessary circuses, but without bread, to bemuse the masses of people and induce them to believe that their misery and poverty might eventually be alleviated through colonial for settlement did not materialize. After it was all over. Haile Selassie had his moment on the rostrum of the League of Nations, and European leaders were content to let him foretell the doom of nations that abandoned collective security while kissing him off as a booe that perhaps Mussolini deserved for being so moderate in his rapacity. Although Mr. Mack Smith does not write history as a morality tale, he cannot resist noting that under Fascism "journalism and public relations were the most essential of all professional activities." And io the account of Mussolini's rise and fall, the most ignoble role was played by journalists, among them many Americans, who belped to portray Italy as a strong country under a strong leader. Some were bribed outright with cash, but most succumbed to the somewhat more subtle blandishments of prestige. In thia, Italian journalists were no worse or no better, if you will, than foreign correspondents. Some of the latter came to repent their sins. Most did not

In considering the nature of Italian Fascism 30 years after its demise, it is good to have a book that discloses so keenly the malign oature of that movement and the sheer evil of Mussolini. It is sobering, though, to realize how easily he remained in power, how readly the maases of Italians were duped, how cynically a clever pragmatist was able to manipulate them and, finally, how sterile is military strength. Turning Back the Clock

In its controversial 5-to-4 ruling to invalidate a 1974 law that extended minimum wage and maximum hour provisions to state and municipal employees, the Supreme Court has reversed far-reaching past opinions concerning the relationship between the Federal Government and the states.

.. Even on the narrow issue of the case, it is difficult to accept the view that public workers should not enjoy minimal protections granted by Federal legislation to workers in the private sector. But the ruling's broader import transcends the question of wage and hour policies. It signifies a judicial revolt against economic reform legislation reminiscent of an earlier Court's counterattacks against the New Deal. Viewed against the lessons of history, the majority opinion augurs substitution of an outmoded hrand of politico-economic conservatism for policies guided by a concern for bumane economics under the protective shield of Federal legislation.

Writing for the majority, Justice William H. Rehnquist held that giving Congress the right, under its constitutional power to regulate interstate commerce, to intrude upon "the conduct of integral [state] government functions" is to allow "the national government to devour the essentials of state sovereignty."

In fact, the plea of the challengers of the Federal wage and hour provisions was in large measure based on the argument that the Congressional mandate would be too costly, either in taxes or in reduced services. But on hoth counts-that of humane employment practices and the broader one of states' rights-justice and the constitutional intent seem to us far more persuasively dealt with by Justice John Paul Stevens in his down-

He failed to understand, Justice Stevens wrote, how the Government could be prohibited from interfering with "a sovereign state's inherent right to pay a suhstandard wage to the janitor at the state capitol," when that same Government is entitled to withhold taxes from that janitor's paycheck, to require safety regulations for his work, and to forhid him to drive his truck at a speed of more than 55 miles an hour.

So simply exposed, the judicial theory proclaimed by the Court's majority is readily recognized as "mischievous"-the characterization applied to it by Justice William J. Brennan Jr. It is an effort to turn the clock back to the days when the ideology of states' rights was often synonymous with minimal concern for fairzess and social justice.

Opening Private Schools

The Supreme Court extended yesterday the scope of a task it began some time ago of redeeming the promise the 13th Amendment for black Americans. The high court ruled that commercially operated private nonsectarian schools could not exclude students on the basis of race—a far-reaching decision that comes as a welcome relief.

The Court decided the private school case on the basis of the current version of the Civil Rights Act of 1866, which was designed to secure for former slaves the rights of citizenship that the 13th Amendment, banning slavery, was intended to bestow. That act was designed, among other things, to insure for former slaves and their descendants the same freedom to enter into contracts that free white Americans had previously possessed.

As post-Reconstruction sentiment hardened into Jim Crow laws in the South and strong anti-hlack feelings spread throughout the nation, the constitutional amendments and implementing legislation designed to free blacks were rendered almost nugatory. Indeed, ingenious corporation lawyers were able to make the 14th Amendment work more to the advantage of corporations than for blacks early in this century.

But the debate on toe employment section of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 reinforced the applicability of the 1866 act to private employment agreements. In 1968, the Supreme Court applied it to housing. The Court's decision yesterday applied the existing principle of contractual freedom to private schools which are commercial enterprises.

As important as the application of the ruling may be to the parties directly affected, its significance transcends the immediate litigation since it clearly indicates that the rights of citizenship conferred after the Civil Wat are paramount over the exercise of rights of privacy and free association that might tend to diminish the grant of freedom under the 13th Amendment.

Adirondack Compromise

Republicans in the Senate have very little time in which to reverse a mischievous decision to hury legislation concerming the Adirondack Park Agency. In a surprise move a party conference voted not even to take up a compromise package of hills already passed by the Assembly. The purpose of these bills was to improve the operations of the agency and to ease tensions between that hardpressed office and some of the park's residents and local

While the legislation is not wholly satisfying to either the agency's supporters or its most militant critics, representatives of both sides strongly favor most of it. The agency itself needs and wants the greater flexibility that the legislation would allow in enforcing its zoning restrictions. Both sides have everything to gain from the proposal to replace criminal penalties with civil sanctions.

Since the legislative package on the whole has the support of the Adirondack Park Agency, of the Local Review Board which is its fiercest critic, of the Assembly and, indeed, of the Republican leadership in the Senate, the conclusion is irresistible that it is being blocked by those whose cynical interest is to see problems aggravated rather than solved, in the hope that if the strain lasts long enough, the agency may he abolished.

Republican Senate leaders owe it to the entire state, for which the Adirondacks are a priceless resource, to repudiate so destructive an approach to so important

Built-In Inflation?

News of the rise of the consumer price index last month at an annual rate of 7.2 percent was perhaps most remarkable for the composure with which it was accepted by the Ford Administration, hy conservative hankers and husinessmen, hy most economists and by the stock market.

In part this was because most knowledgeable observers expected all along that prices would be rising this year at about a 6 percent annual rate, and the May figure, resulting chiefly from a turnaround in food prices and a jump in gasoline, simply confirmed expectations.

But even if the basic inflationary rate is no worse than 6 percent per annum, there is no reason for complacency. If that 6 percent trend were to continue, the present value of a dollar (now worth only two-thirds what it was a decade ago) would be cut in half just twelve years

The race to stay ahead of so high a hase rate of inflation could severely harm saving and investment. Efforts to "index" against chronic inflation-by old-age pensioners, workers, farmers and other groups in the societywould almost certainly exacerbate inflationary pressures and expectations.

A high inflation, high unemployment pattern is already in process of heing huilt into the economic system. In the earlier postwar period, an annual rate of price increase of 11/2 percent to 2 percent was looked upon as "normal," but the society now is expected to get used to an inflationary rate three times as high. The postwar norm for "full employment" was taken to he an unemployment rate of 4 percent, but a jobless rate half again as high is now looming as "the hest" a stable economy can be expected to produce.

This isn't nearly good enough. The nation is lookingwith particular emphasis this election year-for a candidate and a party with an effective and humane plan for dealing with hoth inflation and unemployment.

Toward Court Reform

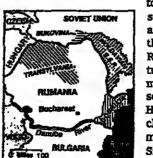

A nudge rather than a push should enable the State Senate and Assembly to ameliorate their small differences on three constitutional amendments dealing with court reform. The proposals would permit the Governor to appoint the judges of the state's highest tribunal, the Court of Appeals, choosing from names submitted hy a Commission on Judicial Nomination; create a post of chief administrator of the state's courts to centralize supervision; and establish more efficient machinery for disciplining judges.

While these amendments do not cover more fundamental reforms-unification of all the fragmented courts within the State Supreme Court, centralized financing of the courts by the state, and merit selection instead of election of most jurists-they are desirable as a starter. The Legislature should surely he ahle to agree on these proposals hefore adjournment.

Balkan Borders

A Rumanian official vowed recently that he would respond "article for article, book for book" to a "scholarly offensive" that was being mounted against his country. At issue in this alleged war of the scholars are Rumania's true borders.

Hungarian professors argue that Rumanian Transylvania-assigned to that country by the Treaty of Trianon in 1920-is unalterably Hungarian, with the implication that it ought to be given back to Hungary. In Bulgaria, another group of professors is trying to buttress Sofia's claim on Dobruja, Rumania's share of the Black Sea Coast. In the Soviet Union, scholars seek to justify Moscow's 1940 seizure of northern Bukovina and Bessarabia, territories that, in the view of loyal Rumanians, ought to be returned to Bucharest. Rumania meanwhile has its own researchers busily refuting the Hungarian and Bulgarian claims, while advancing Rumania's case against Moscow. Since these debates are taking place under Communist dictatorships, they are obviously inspired by the respective governments.

Communism thus has clearly not been able to extinguish Eastern Europe's nationalist passions, notwithstanding predictions by Karl Marx and Freidrich Engels that socialist brotherhood would conquer chauvinism. Indeed, nationalism strongly motivates the different peoples of the Soviet Union itself, particularly among such repressed minorities as those in the three independent Baltic republics seized by Stalin shortly before Hitler's 1941 invasion.

So long as this conflict remains a war of scholarly articles, its cost is small. But for the Rumanians—the astonishing dissidents of the Warsaw Pact who obstinately insist on the right to their own foreign policy, independent of Moscow-these verbal battles may seem ominous. Bucharest's leaders undoubtedly wonder whether military force may in time back up the academic researchers. The "scholarly offensive" is a reminder to the Rumanians of the territorial punishment that could be inflicted upon them, should type get too far out of step with Moscow's marching ders.

Letters to the Editor

Of Jimmy Carter, Church and State

To the Editor: William Shannon's column on the religious issue against Jimmy Carter (June 17) appears to me off target. There is a very basic reason why many people distrust an officeholder who has strong religious convictions. It is not just misguided secularism.

There is a concern that the officeholder who is convinced he is doing the right thing because his decisions are God-inspired through prayer may brook no challenge. Who can argue with the self-righteous leader who believes be is listening to and obeying the true word of God?

Any action such a leader takes could, in his mind, have the sanction of divine approval. As a result, his critics could become impious if not impotent. This leaves the skeptic with little recourse and much concern.

I fear the arrogance of any leader who could believe that he has God on his side. It is not that every heliever is a fanatic. On the other hand, every fanatic is a believer. As for me, I feel safer with a skeptic.

PEGGY L. DENNIS Garden City, L.I., June 17, 1976

To the Editor:

It was like a breath of spring to treated to an unusual-even atypical-exposition of intellectual honesty in William V. Shannon's

"The Religious Issue." While the direct issue at hand was Mr. Carter's involvement in religion, I found Mr. Shannon's reactions to the "civil religion of secularism" a most succinct and direct answer, and challenge, to those Americans who have aggressively pursued the "poisonous metaphor" of a "wall of separatioo" between church and state - including the members of the Supreme Court. Frankly, in all my avid reading of your pages, I have not seen this point of view so articulately expressed. It does seem to me that something drastic and dramatic has to be done to counteract the "grave nonsense" of founding a constitutional theory on the "social fiction" that there can be a real separation of church and state in America, especially at a time when all the Bicentennial "hullabaloo" in regard to the "religious mortar of American democracy" is once again tounted from the rooftops.

In an age of moral degradation on so many fronts, the religious nonpublic schools of our land are educating precisely for these same values which contributed that mortar. And the least that they can expect is Federal aid in those areas where they espouse the cause of American democracy so valiantly.

JOSEPH KAMINETSKY National Director, National Society for Hebrew-Day Schools New York, June 17, 1976

To the Editor.

William Shannon's contention that worries about Jimmy Carter's religion are coming mainly from those who are convinced God is dead seems to me wide of the mark. Voters are not worried about Carter's faith hecause it is theistic but because they would like to know something about the shape of his theology.

Does he believe with fellow Baptist Billy Graham that the Second Coming is close at hand, that persons can be possessed by fallen angels and that the unsaved will suffer eternal torment? Does he share William Jennings Bryan's disbelief in evolution? Does he believe that glossolalla and healing are gifts of the Holy Spirit? Does he believe that the Jews refused to recognize their own Messiah when he finally appeared in their midst? Most evangelical Christians answer yes to all these questions.

Some of us are convinced that how a Christian answers such questions is not unrelated to the kind of President would make. And if Jimmy Carter has no opinion on these questions, or pretends to have opinious he does not have, that ton is something we would like to know.

The Hospital Issue

To the Editor:

I tried to explain Dr. Bertrand M. Bell's suggestion ("To Cut Hospital Costs," letter June 22) that District 1199 should negotiate a contract based on a "restructuring" of the healthcare system to one of our members, Jose Baez. I pointed out that Dr. Bell sees a change in the present healthcare system as "the real issues underlying the controversy" between our union and the League of Voluntary Hospitals.

Mr. Baez is fairly typical of our members who work in the hospitals. He has been employed at one of our major institutions for six years, has a wife and three children, His take-home pay is $157.50 a week, the family's sole income (out of which food alone takes a $65 bite).

Joe Baez is worried. Like thousands of others involved in this contract dispute, he is going deeper and deeper into deht. Unless he gets a minimal cost-of-living increase in the new contract as recommended by a Federal Board of Inquiry, he and thousands like him could end up on welfare.

I carefully explained to Mr. Baez that Dr. Bell had supported his argument hy citing several studies on unnecessary hospitalizations, costly diagnostic procedures and the fact that health-care costs have skyrocketed in the past fifteen years.

First, Mr. Baez thought Dr. Bell might be joking. "No," I said. Then Mr. Baez asked, "How can we [the union] negotiate a contract calling for a change in the entire health-care system within the next ten days? Our contract expires June 30."

Then he added, "Where I come from we have a saying which I'd like to tell Dr. Bell: 'Doctor, curate tu mismo [Physician, heal thyself].'"

Why the Judicial Conference Should Die

Recently I issued a statement that I would not seek another term as the representative of the Judicial Confereoce of the State of New York for the Civil Court of New York City.

I have been a judge since 1969 and a representative of the conference for the past six years. In my opinion, the Judicial Conference has been ineffectual and should be abolished. As a former Assemblyman for eighteen years, I voted for the creation of the Judicial Conference in 1955: if I were a member today, I would vote for its abolition.

The Judicial Conference meets one day a year when a luncheon is served and certain legislation is discussed. There are no other meetings during the year of the full conference, although the Administrative Board may meet. The Administrative Board is composed of Chief Judge Breitel and the four presiding justices of the Appellate Division, and State Administrative Judge Bartlett, and is in effect the law-making and policy-making body. The rest of the conference, consisting of eighteen judges representing various courts, are never consulted with reference to any changes of orders affecting their courts.

The most glaring example of the lack of communication by the Administrative Board with the judges actually elected to the Judicial Conference was when the Administrative Board abolished the positions of the legal 'law secretaries of the Civil Courts. I was never advised or consulted. The Office of Court Administration of the State of New York in a press release dated Oct. 30, 1975, stated: "For the first time since its establishment in 1955, the Judicial Conference of the State of New York, the principal advisory body in the unified court system, now. counts among its memhers judges representing every kind of court in the system."

It is ironic that in the six years I have been on the conference at no time have I or the other judges except the Administrative Board been asked for recommendations pertaining to court administration, Although these offices were established by the Judiciary Law, Sect. 224, they are nothing more than window dressing; only the Administrative Board has any input or say in the administration of the courts.

For all of the above reasons, I announced that I would no longer represent the Civil Court and reiterate my belief that either the Judicial Cooference, including the Administrative Board, be abolished or that all members, including those not on the Administrative Board, be advised of any proposed changes prior to their enactment by the Administrative Board and at least he afforded the opportunity to submit any proposal affecting the particular court to its members.

Cruelty in Vegetarianism

By Eldon W. Dickens Jr.

IOWA CITY-The practice of eating meat bas been severely criticized by vegetarians, who advocate that animals ought to be accorded a right-tolife similar or equal to that of humans. Unfortunately, there is unavoidable inconsistency in this vegetarian view-

Most people familiar with modern biology would agree that oo species stand alone but that all are part of a greater organism. The various communities, biomes and ecosystems that are the vital tissues of the ecosphere are constructed of mutually dependent classifications of organisms. This interdependence is often portrayed in charts of nutrient cycles and energy pyramids.

This implies that the fortunes of the flora of a community are as important as the fortunes of its fauna. Any effort to preserve populations of animals, without considering the relationships to other organisms, is futile and foolish. It is as justifiable, ecologically, to argue that plaots have as much right to occupy certain territory, and to live, as do the herbivorous animals that feed on them, or the carnivorous beasts that crown the food

The classic philosophical approach to this issue has been based on the :oocept of "sentience" and those beasts which have been visualized as being seositive to pain have, traditionally, been protected. Therein is more anthropomorphism than argument.

All organisms, flora and fauna alike, must be able to respond to their environment; this is a prerequisite of life. Any alleged difference in perception is a qualitative matter, and more attributable to subjective empathy than structural analysis. It must be recognized that human cruelty is not limited to sentient beings, but may be expressed against any form of life. On the other hand, it is no less an act of cruelty to forage for vegetarian meals than to forage for carnivorous feasts. There is nothing more commeodable in managing a garden-which displaces the natural flora with that for human consumption-than in accomplishing the same with cattle. Each way of life destroys life, for, as the energy pyramid graphically illustrates, that is the nature of

The vegetarian viewpoint Ignores, perhaps even denies, an immense source of cruelty, environmental destruction, and waste of life, while selfrighteously and hypocritically assailing those who partake of animal flesh. In fact, the production of plants for food involves a tremendous amount of chemical poliution, environmental destructioo and systematic waste. Certainly, ethical commitment to, or financial support of, this situation is no more commendable than the purchase and use of meat. Rather, it is apparent that neither eating plants nor eating animals is, of itself, immoral or cruel. There are benefits and disadvantages ln each.

It is impossible to give equal cooslderation to other species without sacrificing ourselves, since those other species must be plants as well as animals. Thus, it is apparent that there is no moral basis for the vegetarian discrimination.

There are, however, both practical and ethical reasons to protect the ecosphere from overpopulation, overexploitation, and overpollution by the human species. To this end, the emphasis upon protecting aoimals is terrifyingly shortsighted. After all, the vast majority of rare and endangered species are flora. The danger facing these plants is a clear and unmistakable warning that the daoger to this world comes not from our taste for meal and hunting.

HANOI-She sat behind her staples all spread out tidily in baskets on the sidewalk. A thin canvas protected ber and the foodstuffs from the morning drizzie. I paused before the small dried-up Vietnamese woman, and said, "Bonjour, grand-maman." She replied with a wide smile on her full red lips, revealing betel-stained black teeth. Around ber bead she wore a black Tonkinese velvet coil. I asked if I could take ber picture and she assented. .

Such friendliness merits some purchase, I thought, so I looked over the brightly colored display of crushed peppers, ginger root, curry powder, dried mushrooms, peanuts, charcoal botek peas in their shells. My eyes fixed on some small black beans. I pointed, "Un kilo." Her eyes brightened. She showed two fingers, I understood: two dongs. I continued along the atreet market, weaving in and out of people, bicycles, basket-bearers, vendors wearing traditional conical straw

Once returned to the Thong Nhat hotel, I opened the rough brown bag and poured the black beans onto a towel. I was struck by their smallness. miniature sisters to the thick frijoles negros which I often ate in Cuba and Brazil. Were these the same beans?

Why so tiny? Those days in and around Hanoi, talking with peasants at an agricultural cooperative and foreign residents in the capital, I learned about the serious seed problem in Vietnam. Since the French departed io 1954 no new seeds have come into the country and the existing degeocrate ooes respond feebly to the azolla greeo manure. A visit to the large covered central market repeated the story: small produce everywhere.

The northern region today lacks both animal and chemical fertilizers and the latter is particularly expeosive. In Khuyen Luong, a cooperative of 1,892 people who cultivate 140 hectares (345 acres), 98;172 dongs of their 1975 income of 663,000 dongs went for chemical fertilizers, imported China. Io Western terms, 30 tons cost $32,724 or about 17 percent of their budget. The head of the cooperative said that they were working to increase their pig breeding so as to augment the natural supply of manure because if too much azolla is used, the vegetables burn.

Fingering those small dried black beans, I thought that there was a unique opportunity for some rich nation to contribute seeds to this impoverished country.

War sapped most of the peasants' energies, and the good earth was neglected, bombed out, defoliated and they have the courage to undertake this smaller challenge in Vietnam? Their presence might not be welcomed now while the wounds of war are still healing. However, their iovisible presence, through the silent gifts of seeds and phosphates, could perhaps pave the way for better relations in the future and dilute quietly and intelligently the weighty presence of the Russians, now equipping industry with heavy machinery, building the factories, supplying armaments, reconstructing ports.

Whoever thicks of greener, fuller rice fields; more ears on stronger, taller cornstalks; larger pineapples than the orange-sized ooes in the Hanoi market; bigger, more enriching, black beans; better diets-not for a government but for a whole nation?

Shifting Levantine Patterns

By C. L. Sulzberger

BREMEN, West Germany-The most intricate self-inflicted torture yet endured by the Middle East since its brave new era of independence is the civil conflict in Lebanon. In this tragic affair, which has already seen the slaughter of thousands of people for mixed and ill-defined reasons of religion, ideology, suspected political preference or mere ignorance, all parties involved seem confused and none seem clear about their goals.

From the viewpoint of the old-fashioned cold war opproach, there are those in the United States Government who are persuaded that a concatenation of pro-Soviet forces decided to get together and precipitate a coup de

This argument contends that Khalid Bakdash, shadowy chief of the Syrian Communist Party; Yasir Arafat, immensely survivable bead of the Palestinian Arabs (wbosc army is mostly in Lebanon), and Kamal Jumblat, leader of the most dauntless Lebaoese Druse tribes (semi-Moslem heretics), deliberately decided to seize power.

It is claimed they not only wished to upset the somewhat outdated system of Lebanese government thased on sharing power among religious groups1 but that they had specific assurances of aid from the U.S.S.R., including supplies of orms from Moscow's satellites in East Europe.

This theory reasons accordingly; Lebanon's anti-leftists, spearheaded by the prosperous Christian minority, refused to occept the leftist program and, already supported for years by a variety of small private armies, fought back, finally helped by the republic's regular forces with their considerable share of Christian officers.

Meanwhile, Syria's President Assad, who dislikes Bakdash and doesn't relish the thought of a revolutionary state on his frontier which might embroil Syria in war with Israel atao inconvenient moment, intervened by sending troops to support Christian opposition to the Moslem-leftist coup. President Assad, a Moslem, comes from a small faction that might be labeled "Protestant," called the Alawitcs.

Perhaps this might imply the inlerpretation that he is less totally committed to an Islamic viewpoint than the majority Sunni Moslems or the large minority of Shiah; but then. after all, the Druse sect to which. Mr. Jumblat belongs is unabashedly It may seem peculiar to Westerners .

to harp upon sectarian differences. Yet they are deeply, emotionally involved in the Lebanese fabric, Lebanon historically originated with a French decision to protect Christian mountaineers from Moslem enemies wheo. the land belong to Ottoman Turkey and which, politically, was later based on sharing power among Islamic, Greek Orthodox and Maronite Roman" Catholic communities.

According to this interpretation-whose veracity canoot be guaranteed any more than most current evaluations of Lebanese affairs-Washington was content to see Mr. Assad accept the unusual responsibility (for a reputed left-wing Arab) of supporting right-wing Christians against a predominantly revolutionary and Islamic

Furthermore, there is a hint that Washington counseled Israel to keep its cool, forget its own previous warn-" ings that it would never accept Syriao. entry into Lebanon, and sit by calmly. Moscow has played its cards with a poker face and under the table. France, which has a long, sentimental ioterest in both Syria and Lebanon (once temporarily under its mandate), has sought quietly to offers its services . as a peacemaker. Again surprisingly, such positive suggestions seem to have been welcomed by Mr. Assad, who visited Paris but postponed similar trips to East Europe.

From the viewpoint of a bewildered Washington, unaccustomed to Levantine iotrigues, the saddest immediate problem produced by the continuing Lebanese tragedy was the murder of Ambassador Frank Meloy, his coun-selor and his chauffeur. But even here there is mystery and confusioo.

There is every indication that Mr. Melov was on a risky mission, arranged by telephone calls; that he was unarmed, riding in an auto not identified by usual embassy insignia, and had agreed to drop the protective car assigned by the Lebanese Govern-, ment when the tiny motorcade reached the frontier beyond which Christian or Moslem guards could not veoture into each other's territory.

This horrid picture of bloodshed and conspiracy sets off a continually chaogiog kaleidoscopic pattern. Egyptian President Sadat, who resented Mr. Assad's apparent chumminess with Moscow and support of Arafat, bas " abruptly started to endorse the latter. ..

Mr. Arafat himself, who used to . commute between Beirut and Damascus and denounce Mr. Sadat in terms as inimical as those he once used for Jordan's King Hussein, previously the Palestinian Arabs' enemy No. 2 (right after Israel), now abhors Assad and thinks Sadat is bot stuff. Special Prosecutor—'Tough but Fair

John Fontaine Keenan

By FRANK J. PRIAL "Thoughtful, careful de-cent," "a guy of ebsolute integrity," and "tough, but fair," are a few of the accolades bestowed on John F. Keenan yesterday after the 46-year-old chief assistant New York County disin the trict attorney was named Special State Prosecutor by Governor Carey. "I sure as hell didn't want to lose him," said his current boss, District Attorney Robert M. Morgenthau, "but I can't think of anyone better than him for the job." Mr. Morgenthau added that he con-sidered Mr. Keenan "one of the finest trial lawyers in the

Mr. Keenan has been an assistant district attorney for almost 20 years, and has successfully prosecuted almost 100 felony cases and more than 30 first-degree murder cases. Ona of the most famous was the conviction of Richard Robles in the 1963 slaying of Janice Wylie and Emily Hoffert.

Phillips Trial Cited

"I've known him sinca be swam for Regis High School and I swam for Fordham Prep," said Robert Daley, a former deputy police com-missioner, "but I was really impressed by him in the first Phillips trial."

Police Officer William R. Phillips, a star witness in the Knapp Commission bearings on police corruption was tried on charges of murder-ing a pimp and a prostitute in an East Side brothel in 1968. The first trial ended in a mistrial.

"He was up against F. Lee Bailey," Mr. Daley said, "but ha was a magnificent prosecutor. And Phillips was convicted later on evidence not available in the first trial,"

Mr. Keenan joined the Manhattan District Attorney's office in 1956. He was a protege of the late Frank S. Hogan and it was generally assumed that Mr. Hogan was grooming the younger man as his successor. "But then William vanden Heuvel went for the job." a source close to the District Attorney's office eaid, "and Hogan decided he would have to run again himself to put down the opstart vanden

Considered Office in '73

Most of Mr. Keenan's and associates friends characterized him as apolitical. But he did once publicly consider running for office. That was in 1973, wheo he was oamed chief assistant district attorney for Queens in the wake of District Attorney Thomas J. Mackell's resignation. "I may well at-tempt to run for District Attorney," he said "depending on what developments come in the future." What developed was that he went back to the Manhattan District Attorney's office. Since then he has been mentioned for several jobs, including special prosecutor for oursing homes and, earlier this year, as a temporary assistant io the Special Prosecutor's office, serving until eomeone was named as. replacement hy Governor Carey in January. That was before Mr. Nadjari was permitted to stay on until July

Big-Flag Story Unfurls On Verrazano Bridge

By EDWARD C. BURKS

On a 30-inch-wide steel truss of the Verrazano-Narrows Bridge 250 feet above the water, workmen made preparations yesterday to hnist a giant toast in the nation's 200th birthday-an American flag the size of a football

The formal hoisting of the flag, made of nylnn taffeta sailcloth, is scheduled for next Wednesday at 1 P.M., but a test run was attempted yesterday until gusty. rainy weather forced a postponement.

Len Silverfine, a Brooklyn-born teacher now living in Vermont, and Pierre Leduc, an advertising executive with offices here and in Montreal, enneocted the idea of a super flag display.

Special hoisting winches are on hand to lift the flag along the bridge's vertical suspender cables in 10 minutes. But with rainy wind gusts of 25 miles an hnur. Robert A. Martin, engineer of maintenance of the Triborough Bridge and Tunnel Authority, called off the test hoist. The flag-of sturdy 200-denier material and with "double, zig-zag stitching"-is designed to withstand wind velocities of 30 miles an hour. But no one wanted it to become water-logged.

Covered by a wrapper, the flag is tied to the Iruss for safekeeping prior to unfurling June 30. July 3 and July 4, and a oet below the beam protects workers from

The Major Events of the Day

International

The Polish Government yesterday withdrew its plan to raise food prices sharply after workers protesting the increases had torn up railroad tracks near Warsaw and struck in other parts of the country. Prime Minister Piotr Jaroszewicz, in a brief television statement, said that the Government had decided to give the proposal further consideration. This could take months. [Page 1, Column 5.]

In an address on the political, economic and military prospects of the West before the Institute of Strategic Studies in Londoo, Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger was philosophical and optimistic and possibly valedictory. The institute regularly poblishes studies on the balance of world forces. Mr. Kissinger's aides, with whom he spent several weeks preparing the speech, said that it might bave been his final major address in Europe as Secretary of State. [1:6-7.]

The Supreme Court ruled 7 to 2 that private schools may not exclude black children because of their color. The Court in effect ruled against the so-called "freedom schools" that were established in the South by whites following the Court's 1954 Brown decisioo that banned racial segregation in public schools. The Southern Independent School Association, representing about 375 schools, was one of the parties in the legal dispute that resulted in today's ruling. The association bad conceded that many of its member schools excluded students for racial reasons and had argued that the schools could not be forbidden to do so under the Constitution. [1:6.]

In another 7-to-2 decision, the Supreme Court ruled that civil rights laws give the same protection to whites as they do to blacks and made it clear that those laws were not intended only for nonwhites. The ruling was made in a case in which two white men charged that they were illegally discriminated against on the basis of race when their employer dismissed them for allegedly stealing company property, but did not dismiss a third man, a black, who was implicated. [1:6-7.] President Ford headed toward the capture of all or nearly all of Minnesota's 18 at-large coovention delegates, a victory that would put under 100 the additional votes he needed for the Republican Presidential comination. The Ford supporters seemed to be solidly in control of the 1,976 delegates tothe Independent-Republican convention in St. Paul, where Betty Ford led ber busband's forces, and where Ronald Reagan spoke but did not get many new votes. [1:2-4.]

Senate and House conferees agreed to proceed with production plans for the contro-versial B-1 supersonic bomber. In approving a compromise bill authorizing the purchase $32.5 billion in weapons, the conference deleted a Senate-approved restriction that would have delayed a production contract until at least next Feb. I. [1:4-7.] Senator Russell B. Long of Louisiana said that be will ask the Senate to strike from the pending tax bill a provision that could benefit members of his family. [1:8.]

With the statement that "I have coocluded that his services should be terminated," Attorney General Louis J. Lefkowitz dismissed Maurice H. Nadjari as special state prosecutor in charge of investigating corruption in New York City's criminal-justice system. John F. Keenan, chief assistant district attorney in Manhattan, will succeed him. [1:1.]

Bipartisan agreement was announced in Albany on a bill that would allow Family Court judges to mandate confinement of a minimum of two years for juveniles who committed the most serious crimes of violeoce. The bill has Governor Carey's support and is expected to get quick approval in the Legislature. [1:2.]

President Ford assigned 100 Job Corps trainees to help clean up the beaches on Long Island that were polluted by sewage in the last week, but the beaches were not made eligible for Federal disaster aid. Almost all the beaches were open yesterday. Jooes Beach State Park is expected to open most of its beaches today, [1:3-4.] The theft of a $250,000 payroll at the

Sloan-Kettering Institute for Cancer Research on East 68th Street was prevented in an early morning stakeout by detectives who arrested five men. The detectives had followed a tip from an informant a month ago who said that there would be a robbery at an unnamed Manhattan hospital. [1:2-3.]

Simmering in Grip Of Dry Heat Wave

LONDON, June 2S (Reuters) -An exceptional heat wave intensified in northwest Europe today, Many city parks caught fire, chocolates melted in shops and altar candles wilted. On a London subway train, stranded commuters fainted screamed aod smashed windows.

Britain and Europe

An air stream coming northeast from the warm Atlantic off Spain is bringing an unprepared region the hottest weather it has had for years. Temperatures in London and Paris rose above 90 degrees this

The hot, dry weather also rought severe water shortages. British authorities warned that water might have to be rationed. Bishops in the west of France ordered parish priests today to lead prayers for rain. Farmers in western Switzerland slaughtered cows for lack of fresh grass to feed them.

Hot weather and water shortages were reported all over Western Europe.

Because of a signal failure, a London subway train remained for two hours in a tunnel underneath Baker Street. As oven-like heat built up, passengers gasped for air. Some vomited others fainted. Windows were smashed, but the air that came in was no less hot.

Shopkeepers in London and Paris reported serious losses of confectionary goods that melted before they could be moved cool places.

State Officials See No Peril In Expected Op Sail Crowds

Special to The New York Times

WEST NEW YORK, N.J., June 25-Leaders of Hudson and Bergen County communities atop the New Jersey Palisades have fears about crowd control during Operation Sail on the Hudson River July 4, but their fears are not shared by state officials.

Mayor Anthony M. De Fino said here today that he had been having nightmares m which a million people were jammed together on rotted piers and near the edge of the cliffs that will offer a spectacu-lar view of the tall shops sailing up the river.

Other municipal officials talked about the danger of massive immobilization—fires that cannot be reached, by fire companies, injured or ill people who cannot be transported to a hospital, lawbreakers who cannot be caught.

However, Col. Clinton Pagano, the Superintendent of New Jersey State Police, sees the situation somewhat differently. "I don't want one person, not one family, to stay away from a once-in-a-lifetime chance to see those ships out of fear of being trampled, ripped-off or pushed down a cliff," the colonel said today. "We've been planning for over a year to make sure those kind of things."

And along the cliffs and at fire and police training centers held up in traffic or not being being taught mountain-climb-lable to get to quite the spot apering techniques.

"We have contingency plans patched if there is an emergen-look forward to a memorable, remarkable day that everyone planning for over a year to make sure those kind of things."

Special to The New York. Trains SINGAPORE-The Mescov Narodny Bank, the state-owned Russian bank that does a hig commercial busi-ness from its London base, is causing problems for the Soviet Union as a result of its operations in Singapore.

In the five years of full operations in this Southeast Asian financial center, the bank has run it p a series of bad investments, become expressed in the series of bad investments, become

Yet the spread of the Narodny Bank in Asia has, in a broader sense, paralleled the spread of Societ influence. the spread of Soviet influence in the region.

Friends Being Cultivated

A growing group of oh-servers argue that the finan-cial problems have not been all uncalculated and that huilding the financial framework and network of friends it has sought all along.

We watch almost helpless: ly while their money pours in here. We'll control it even-tually," he cootinued. "We're working on it, but we don't like it."

Specifically, under its shadowy Singapore-Chinese manager, Teo Poh Kong, the bank has managed to penetrate the intricate overseas. Chinese husiness community whose complex familial and business connections run through all of Southeast Asla from Hong Kong to Thai-iand, Malaysia, Singapore, Indonesia and beyond. And, in the process, it has ac-quired interests in land holdings, shipping and a number of potentially sensitive enter-

"Controlling quality is not just a matter of ealing a piece of cake or doughnut from time to time," said Robert Rosenthal, 27, the company's secretary-treasurer and legal aide.

"For example, we prepare our own ingredients. Anyone can buy, say, cinnamon. We huy the bark from abroad and process it ourselves. We even have a liquor license so we can process our own vanilla beans. The same holds for the chocolate wemake directly from cocoa

Charles Entenmann nodded in agreement. Mr. Rosenthal, whose father joined the company as a bookkeeper and now directs labor-management relations,

"We could go into the spice business overnight because we have the equipment to process these raw materials. As for other commodities, we keep in daily contact with flour, vegetable-oil, egg and many other suppliers. Most of our buying is well forward in needs. Basically, Entenmann's markets its products in chain stores and supermarkets, most of which have their own lines of baked goods, through driver-salesmen. These 510 salesmen receive commissions on the sales plus a salary and, like the remaining 900 employess, are union members. The driver-salesmen re-

Mr. Roseothal commented: The recession may have helped us because many people gave un on frozen cakes because of cost. We don't make frozen goods. One item we would love to make is croissants, but we can't."

'We can't make croissants because it is a one-day item," Mr. Entenmann interjected.' "Either you eat them within one day or they become terrible. If we sold croissants, we would have to service every outlet every day instead of every other day or so." >

What executives of the company prefer to talk about is its new Miami operation, which began last November and showed a profit by January. "And 70 percent of the trade there isn't from New York." Mr. Entenmann said. "They're natives."

Threat Seen in Banks' Stock Trading

By ROBERT METZ

In 1975, the trust depart-ment of the Morgan Guaranty Trust Company bought 31 percent of all shares of Inco Ltd. sold in that year.

Morgan, whose trust department's pool of common stocks constitutes by far the largest such holding in the nation, also accounted for net purchases of Kaiser Aluminum and Chemical Corporation stock amounting to 38.S percent of the year's selling in those stocks,

The bank's 1975 purchases of Crown Zellerbach Corporation shares constituted 28.5 percent of sales of that stock, and its purchases of shares of another major bank, Manufacturers Hanover Trust Company, amounted to 24 percent of sales of that stock in 1975. These statistics are from a recent analysis by Roy S. Schotland, professor of law at Georgetown University, who believes that Morgan and other major banks are the dominant factor in the stock market. He asserted that there were six stocks in which Morgan's buying alone or Morgan's selling alone —or Morgan's setting atome—accounted for over 25 percent of total trading. In 26 stocks, Morgan's trading accounted for over 10 percent of the total and in 54 stocks, Morgan did at least S percent of the trading.

Professor Schotland's analysis notes that while Morgan spreads trading as much as possible, its activi-ties constitute a formidable factor in the trading of such important stocks as I.B.M., Eastman Kodak Company and Xerox Corporation.

Morgan sold I.B.M. on all hut 12 trading days in 1975, Professor Schotland said, and sold Eastman Kodak on all hut 17 and Xerox on all but 18. Schlumberger Ltd. was sold on all hut 13 days. Professor Schotland im-ings. In addition to Morgan, the hanks, in order of size, are the Citibank, Bankers Trust Compeny, Chase Manhattan Bank, Mellon National Bank of Pittsburgh, United States Trust Company and Mann-facturers Hanover. They managed an 'immense" $86 billion in 1974, the latest year for which figures are available. That is "just over 25 percent" of the trust assets managed by all 3,999 trust departments in the nation Professor Schotland ad-

In 1974, Morgan managed $15.4 billion in stocks.

Assets under bank trust department management far exceed assets of all other institutional investors. The 3,999 trust departments managed $171 billion in 1974. By comparison, the second-largest factor-the investment companies — manage only $34 billion. Life insurance companies, third-ranked, managed $22 billion, and foundations were next with $18 billion. Professor Schotland believes "domination" by Morgan and the other leading banks threatens the soundness of stock market pricing, the safety of investors' port-folios — especially pension fund portfolios, "in which public interest is acute"—the independent judgment of operating corporations' man-agements and public con-He believes the threat is Professor Schotland be-lieves that the "surest solu-tion" to the problem would be to limit holdings of any one trust department to 5 percent of the outstanding, shares of any single large corporation corporation.

He said this would lead to further diversification by the trust departments and would benefit corporations whose shares are now neglected. He thinks there would also be a "gradual spread" of trust assets to a greater number of banks and other investment managers. He wrote:

This is bound to occur as new accounts will avoid the handful of gargantuan trust departments already at their bolding limits in, say, LB.M., and similar institutional favorites."

Professor Schotland notes that Senator Lloyd M. Bent-sen, Democrat of Texas, and others have proposed similar institutional stock bolding limits, Mutual funds and insurance company boldings are already subject to limits and some major banks bave "voluntarily" limited them-selves, be adds.

The bill would give about 7,000 brokers known as "market makers" credits on state and city business income taxes to counter the effects of a stock transfer tax enacted last year. Governor Carey sald the measure would not cost the city or state any revenue in their current fiscal years, but would in future years.

Moscow's Narodny Bank Causes Trouble in Singapore

Within two years of its chartering in 1971 as a "re-stricted bank" that restricts t only from accepting deposits of less than $100,000. Moscow Narodny has grown to one of the largest banks in Singapore with nearly $600 million in loans.

Most of this capital was funds channeled from Moscow Narodny in London (it still officially listed as a British Bank by the Monetary Authority of Singapore1 and a year later it also had orore net loans and advances outstanding than any other Singapore bank, though Citi-bank, which opened here in 1902, was a close second. By this time, however, Moscow Narodny was al-ready io trooble both in its Singapore home and in Malaysia and Hong Kong as

Shortly after it opened its doors here, Moscow Narodny's new Russian managers went to Singapore's second largest onshore bank, the United Overseas Bank, and hired away its assistant general manager, Mr. Teo. who had previously worked for the Bank of America, and gave him to all outward appearances a virtually unfet-tered band in all of its lendiog operatioos.

Loans to Farmer Accounts

Using its initial capital structure of three milion Singapore dollars (SI-2 million in Uoited States currency), Mr. Teo began making a number of loans to his for-mer accounts from United Overseas Bank and a broad range of oew enterprises as well—chiefly in the highly speculative areas of property holdings and commodities in Malaysia, Hong Kong and In-

It was his Indonesian ventures that first ran ioto serious trouble, In 1972 ao Indooesian newspaper, apparently with the prompting of the Government in Jakarata, accused Moscow Narodny of heavy-handed interference in the Indonesian economy by providing loans to Indonesian businessmeo who used the money to corner the nation's sugar market.

The bank denied the charge but it proved to be only the first of many accusations.

The most spectacular of these was the bank's heavy involvement in the financial troubles of the Mosbert group whose head, Amos group whose head, Amos Dawe, had now disappeared leaving behind bim a string of failing corporations, land-holdiogs and banks.

BANK ACCOUNT LAW COMES UNDER FIRE

all banking institutions in New York, advising them of the revised- interpretation of the amended law. The state's position is that legislative action is not required to change its interpretation.

Despite the state's action on this complaint, however, the amended Abandooed Property Law remains cootroversial Banks report receiving numerous inquiries and protests from their depositors and note that they do not expect to be able to locate many of the holders of dormant accounts io the relatively short time available.

On Aug. 1 the banks must provide a report to the state of all accounts dormant for five or more years as of June 30. The funds must be turned over to the state on Nov. I if the depositors are not located before then.

Under the old law, involving the 10-year dormancy period. banks normally would begin making efforts to locate the holders of dormant accounts after five years, providing plenty of time for their search. Now the banks must accomplish the same task within a matter of months.

Problem Compounded

The problem is compounded by the fact that many svings depositors are retired people who may have changed their place of residence or who may ive in another state, such as Florida, for a major part of the

"Some of these people-especially the ones with certificates of deposit—may have moved away permaneotly with the idea of notifying their bank by mail when their certificates mature," said one savings backer. "They have the certificate or their passbook, so they feel secure.' Seizure of a dormant account by the state does oot mean that the depositor's funds are lost forever. He cao get them back by applying to the New York State Department of Audit and Cootrol in Albany, but the process cao be time-consuming. Moreover, funds seized by the state cease to earn interest for the depositor, providing the state with money at no cost that can be deployed in virtually any way the state wishes until the holders of the dormant accounts come forward.

Depositors cao avoid the eotire troublesome process by initiating some sort of action In their accounts. They cao appear at their bank and have the nterest posted, or they can make deposits or withdrawals.

But what particularly disturbed the Monetary Authority of Singapore, which is reportedly in the midst of a major investigation of the bank's entire accounting procedures, as well as finan-cial and Government officials in Hong Kong and Koala Lumpur, was the way io which the bank's funds were channeled through an intri-cate set of subsidiaries to Mosbert Enterprises in a number of countries -partic-

Malaysia, it seems, does not allow foreign state-owned banks to operate there and Hong Kong, with its sensitive proximity to China, was nervous as well (Moscow Narodny unlike the Bank of China, the Chioese central bank, has never been allowed to operate in Hong Kong either).

Malaysia Penetration Feared

In particular, Malaysia was concerned that in the Mos-bert collapse, Moscow Narod-ny, which had some $60 mil-lion in loans outstanding to $$00 million conglomer-would acquire substantial property in Malaysia. (These assets have oot yet en acquired since the case s still being litigated.) And in Hong Kong, disclosures of Moscow Narodny's role in Mosbert, printed in two local financial publicanons, with an accusation that it was part of a Soviet plot to infiltrate the colony, was picked up and headlined in Ta Rung Pao, the Hong Kong Chinese Communist newspaper. By this time, most serious bankers in Asia had completely written off Moscow Narodny as a sound financial institution. Interbank loan rates in Singapore quoted to Moscow Narodny were re-portedly consistently higher than those quoted to any other offshore or restricted bank. suspicion that Peking diatribes against Moscow Narodny had a grain of truth. Moscow Narodny The People's Daily of Peking said recently in a lead article transmitted by the New China News Agency, had aroused "deep concern and resectment" in Southeast Asia. "In recent years," the paper continued, "the Soviet revisionists have stepped up their economic expansion to Southeast Asia by all possible means.

Many bankers and diplo-mats here are beginning to take such charges seriously. One American banker said last week that in addition to beavy investments in proper-ty, the bank had also begun to lend funds to a number of Singapore shippards that could be used for the servicing of the large oumbers of Soviet merchant ships that call here. "And who knows." the banker added, "in the fu-ture perhaps it could be war-ships as well."

Conspiracy Is Denied

Mr. Teo, while refusing to answer any questions personally, nevertheless denies any such dark conspiracies, al-though one former employee of the bank who watched Mr. Teo's activities and the lack of restraint exerted by the Soviet managers here, was at a loss to offer any other explanation. "When I did business for the bank of America nobody said I was working for the Central Intelligence Agency," Mr. Teo was recently quoted as saying. "Why this cry

But as a senior official of the Monetary Authority of Singapore put it las week. "we are going to have to keep an increasingly close watch on banks in Singapore. After all, banks everywhere are having troubles these days. We are looking at ever new guidelines. Who knows where they will lead."

Why HOLT Recommends Selected ...

Deep Discount Convertible Bonds

Currently Yielding Up to 13%

Back in the late 1960's-when convertible bonds were being widely trumpeted as the ideal "can't miss" investment vehicle. The Holt Investment Advisory emphatically stated that investors should stay away from most of these

Today, however, The Holt Advisory believes the time bas come to put some funds in certain of these securities. It has therefore compiled a list of 10 convertible bonds, all listed on the New York Stock Exchange, which it considers to be especially attractive.

In a clear, ooo-technical analysis Holt explains why these deserve the consideration of investors and traders alike in light of prospective developments in both the stock and bond market. For each of the 10 selected convertible bonds, it also presents the specific conversion terms, the current yield and the vield to maturity.

Caution: Not all convertibles are safe investments at this time. Some companies may be too illiquid. And no matter how attractive these securities appear, investment in them involves risks.

Dollar Up in Europe; Pound Is Stable

BRUSSELS, June 25 (UPI)-The dollar recouped midweek losses on most European money markets today, while the pound remained stable. In London the pound closed for the fourth consecutive day at $1.7725, and made slight gains against the Swiss franc and the Germon mark. Dealers said the pound dropped slightly in early trading but they attributed the easing to the dollar's advance against most major currencies.

In Frankfurt the doilar rose from 2.5705 marks to 2.5765, in Zurich from 2.4713 francs to 2.4735, in Paris from 4.7340 francs to 4.7470, in Brussels from 40.00 francs to 40.025 and in Amsterdam from 2.7325 guilders to 2.74. Milan was the only major market where the dollar declined—from 845 lire to 844. Th eprice of gold rose from $124.55 to $124.95 in Zurich and from $124.625 to $124.875

Money Market Fund Assets Off

Total assets of money market funds declined by 2.8 percent in May to $3.49 hillion from $3.59 hillion in April, the Investment Company Institute reported yesterday. Assets of these funds a year ago in May totaled $2.81 hillion.

Money market funds are mutual funds set up to invest in debt obligations such as commercial paper, certificates of deposit, letters of credit, bankers acceptances and United States Government securities. The average maturity of money market fund portfolios dropped to 85 days io May from 92 days in April, and the number of accounts decreased to 197,442 from 200,152.

Option 'Wash' Sales Are Studied

CHICAGO, June 25 (UPI)-The Chicago Board Options Exchange said today that it was investigating alleged rules violations by some of its members. The investigation involves traders accused of making "wash" sales of options. A "wash" sale is one in which at least two parties execute a trade, then reverse the transaction a short time later at

"We looked into at least 50,000 last-sale transactions in our own ongoing investigation," an exchange spokesman said. 'The result was that there were 10 market makers involved in five situations. The exchange said the questionable transactions came during a period when the system for listing closing prices changed. The exchange practice for more than one year had been to base its closing prices for marginal purposes on the asked price of the closing bid, but its computer service changed the system and listed the last transaction as the closing price.

U.S. Picks Illindis Coal And Conoco in Gas Plan

The Federal Energy Research and Development Administration has selected the Conoco Coal Development Company of Stamford, Conn., and the Illinois Coal Gasification Group of Chicago to og-gotiate contracts for the de-sign of an advanced demonstration plant to convert coal to pipeline-quality gas.

Each concern's design is expected to cost about $20 million and take 20 mooths to complete. The energy agency said it would fund the design work but that subsequent construction and initial operating costs would be shared equally hy it and the contractor. The proposed plant is expected to cost $200 million to $400 million.

The agency noted that the design contracts would begin the first phase of a projected eight-year design, construction and operation program for coal gasification.

The Conoco Coal Company, which has proposed a plant for eastern Ohio, consists of the Cootinental Oil Company, the Coalidated Gas Supply the Consolidated Gas Supply Corporation, the El Paso Natural Gas Company, the Natural Gas Pipeline Company of America, the Tennessee Gas Transmission Company, the Texas Eastern Transmis-sion Corporation, Trans Con-tinental Gas Pipeline Corporation and the Panhandle Eastern Pipe Line Company.

The Illinois group, which has proposed building its plant in Perry County, Ill., consists of the Peoples Gas Light and Coke Company, the Northern Illinois Gas Company, the Central Illinois Bublic Bublic ny, the Central Illinois Public Service Company, the Cen-tral Illinois Light Company and the North Shore Gas Company.

Dynell Suspension

The American Stock Exchange yesterday continued its suspension, imposed Thursday, oo trading in the sbares of the Dynell Electronics Cor-poration of Melville, L. l., a maker of radar, sonar and navigation equipment for the military. Its sales totaled $23 millioo last year.

Dynell plans to demonstrate at Hofstra University next Tuesday and at a news con-ference in the Plaza Hotel Wednesday a device for con-verting images into three-dimensional wax reproduction before the demonstration, could resume Monday, a spokesman, Robert Walker, said. Spending oo the project has totaled $2.8 million over 4½ years. The stock of Dynell, founded in 1960, has been traded oo the American Exchange for five years, with prices ranging this year from a low of $5.125 to a high, achieved Thursday before trading was halted, of $16.50.

Companies Report Profits Boeing to Raise Aircraft Production

The Boeing Commercial Airplane Company, a unit of the Boeing Company of Seattle, Wash, plans to increase production of narrow-bodied jets—707's, 727,'s and 737's—from the current monthly rate of nine to 14 during the next 18 months.

A Boeing official said that domestic air traffic had been growing at a better rate than expected, and the foreign market had been strengthen-ing. The higher production rate, however, is not expected to increase employment io the commercial plane divinratories Inc., Westbury, L. I. Mr. Harvey was granted Patent 3,965,362 this week assigning it to his com-pany, which since 1919 has been engaged in such activities as pollution analysia and testing services for industrial factures test equipment.

The ioventur expects to hava an experimental model of the hydrogen producer in operation at the plant by the end of this year, and he is offering licenses under tha patent to municipalities, utilities and other openizations.

ities and other organizatinos.
The technology of the system, as Mr. Harvy summarizes it, uses heat from incinerated refuse to generate electricity, which in turn produces hydrogen and oxy-gen through electrolysis of water. Oxygen and part of the produced hydrogen are recycled to supercharge the incineration, achieving com-plete refuse combustinn without air pollutinn.

Besides disposing of waste, with a profit from recovered materials, the method can

In general, the inventor's purpose is to produce athrable energy in the form of bydrogen or chemicals obtained from it. Sooner or later, he believes, the world will have to go on a hydrogen economy.

Memory Aid

A method of improving tha learning capacity and memory of warm-blooded animals, iocluding humans, has been patented by Paul Gordon for the Strategic Medical Re-search Corporation, Chicago. According to Patent 3,965,-262, granted him this week, certain monosaccharides or derivatives are administered either neally or by injection. Warm-blooded animals so treated are said to be capable of learning tasks and mem-orizing information at markedly increased rates.

The compounds given to aged rats are reported to help them learn or remember at levels that are normal to young adult animals. Future research is to be conducted with human subjects. Or. Gardoo is inventor of a number of new antiviral drugs, including Isoprinosine. He is consulting director of research for the Strategic Medical Research Corporatino and is also adjunct pro-fessor of microbiology of the Loyala University School of Medicine, Maywood, Ill.

Perimeter Detector

Twn physicists at the raval surface weapons center near Silver Spriog, Md., were awarded a patent this week for a lower power infrared laser intrusion detection system. It is suitable for outdoor use and is relatively immune to trouble from for or rain

Bruce S. Maccabee and Charles E. Bell received Patent 3,965,355 for the invention, which was made on their own time. A perimeter detection system, the equip-ment aims infrared laser beams along the edges of the area being guarded. If a beam is broken by an intruder, a signal is transmitted to the operator.
The invention is unique in that it includes a quantum amplifier that increases the immunity of the system to changes in the environment. Such an amplifier raises the power of infrared laster radiation (invisible to the eye). The inventors may license manufacturer in produce commercial systems i'm ware houses, storage angas and nther large installations.

Coin Expander An Oklahoman has devised a method of expanding the diameters of coins fir decorative purposes, retaining the impressions and embossings for display in medallinns or jewehy. George Boulting-house of Bartlesville was granted Patent 3,964,284 for the method this week. A coio to oe expanded is placed between two sheets nf a softer carrier metal. both the cain and the carrier metal expand in diameter. The embossings on the faces of the cnin also stretch outward. The pressure is stopped when the carrier starts to flow nutward independently of the coin.

The enlarged coin is removed from the initial carriers and the operation is performed again with two fresh layers of carrier material. The operation is repeated as many times as necassary to produce the medallion in the desired size. To expand a United States half dollar to the diameter of a silver dollar, five expansion steps are usually required. The carrier metal may be soft aluminum. In increase the size of a penny to that of a nickel, only two expansions are usually needed.

Philip J. Lamoureux, president of the Warner Slimwear division, was elected executive vice president of Warnaco in charge of operations. Earlier in the day, John W. Field, chairman, said the company's second quarter ending July 3 would show a substantial loss. Industry analysts suggested that the election of Mr. Walker, who had been president of Warnaco of Canada. Ltd., was compacted with the second. connected with the secondquarter performance.

In discussion of the com-pany's problems, Mr. Field said the last half of the year should be better but not so should be better but not so strong as previously esti-mated. He predicted a profit for the year as a whole. Mr. Field said most of the company's problem "lies in inventories."

Armand Hammer, chairman of the Occidental Petroleum Corporation, yes-terday ended a five-day visit to Moscow, during which he conferred with ministries and trade associations. He signed several technical protocols. It was the first visit by the controversial 78-year-old executive to the Soviet Union since he received a fine and suspended sentence earlier this year after pleading guilty in a United States court to misdemeanor charges of making illegal contributions to the 1972 re-election campaign of President Richard M. Nixon.

Debris' Drift 'Bottled'

By DAVID BIRD

Because they wanted to know more about the ocean's current, students in the Science Club at Mark Twain Junior High School on Coney Island gave 10 bottles with return-address cards inside to crewmen of one of New York Club at Mark Twain York City's sludge barges.

York City's sindge barges.

"We thought maybe some of them might drift as far as Europe," said Peter Burichell, the consultant to the club. None of the bottles has reached Europe yet, and none ever may. But five of the bottles have already been returned by residents of Long Beach, L.I., north of the dumping site. All of the finders noted on cards returned to the Mark Twain Science Club that the bottles had been returned on the beach on Ima 14—the came day that retrieved on the beach on June 14-the same day that mysterious sea-borne pollution began shutting down Long Island's beaches.

FIRE ISLAND, L. L-The 70-mile scourge of garbage washed up on the South Shore of Long Island has abated considerably, allowing most heaches to reopen, hat it has created e human tide of bewilderment, anger, fear, fatalism and humor.

The prevailing attitude. however, was as steady as the south wind that in 12 days brought in countless tons of garbage, plastic jugs, tin cans and charred wood. It was summed up by Frank Mina, who, with Edwin Mooney, owns a fleet of 14 ferryboats that ply between the South Shore and Fire at the quality Island.

Business, be and Mr. Mooney agreed, has been hurt somewhat by a drop in passenger traffic to Fire Island. But he and his partner were much more upset by the ap-parent ineptitude of officials.

"Those of us who make our livelihood from the water," he said, near one of the ferry boats at Bay Shore, "are terribly frustrated."

He added: "We see agency on agency on agency set up to deal with environmental problems. Then we get an environmental disaster and no one has even taken charge."

Near the South Shore terminal of the ferry to Atlantique Beach, here, Tom Abram a middle aged butch-er, was fishing. As he made repeated casts into the water German shepherd dogs stood alert in passing boats to drive off thieving seaguils.

"They ought to stop dumping garhage into the ocean, said Mr. Abram. 'They ought to go back to burning it. Then the ocean would stay clean."

AD RATES TO RISE ON '60 MINUTES'

Will Go to $30,000 in Fall for a 30-Second Spot

By LES BROWN

One measure of a hit show in television is the price its commercials command from advertisers. A year ago, a 30-second spot announcement in the CRS-news-magazine "60 Minutes" sold for $18,000 to $27,-000, depending on the time of year (television rates are highest from mid-October to mid-December).

Next fall, however, the rates for "60 Minutes" will jump to a range from $30,000 to $50,000 for a half-minute, which is comparable to what advertisers pay for such popular entertainment shows as "Tony Orlando and Dawn," "The Blue Knight" and "Barnaby Jones."

Moreover, advertisers have not been deterred by what would seem a staggering in- 9:00 (4) Secret Lives of Waldo crease in price from one season to the next. According to CBS sales executives, "60 Minutes" is already sold out to participating advertisers through Septem-her of next year.

Bryant Park: an Oasis Rife With Crime

By JOSEPH B. TREASTER
The tall, leafy sycamores of Bryant Park soften the harsh lines of the city's concrete and glass end muffle the sounds of the street.
From bustling 42d Street, the park looks like an oasis of green and e place for solitude.
Once it was just thet.

Once, it was just thet. These days, however, the park—which sits east of the Avenue of the Americas, between 40th and 42d Streets, and behind the main building of the Public Library, one of New York's best-known laodmarks—is something else.
"Smoke? Good weed, speed and coke," the slender young man in jeans and T-shirt calls out to a couple climbing the stairs to the park.

"And the opium you smoke," another youth says, joining the singing sales Three-Card Monte

Along the balustraded plaza where William Cullen Bryant sits io stone, a man in a diamond-patterned shirt and slacks is flipping two black playing cards and a red card over and back—three-card monte. He turns the cards face down. Who can find the red one? Five will get you 10-double your money. Near the bust of William Earle Dodge, a 19th-century philanthropist and temperance worker who helped or-ganize the Y.M.C.A., a handful of men are bunkered over a pair of bouncing dice. A man in a leather hat is rolling. He slaps his thighs, buffs on the ivories. He's looking for a five.

It was in e craps game at about the same spot a little over a week ago that tempers exploded and a 34-year-old main from the Bronx was stabled to death.

Thet incident has focused new attention on the park, which, the police and mid-town businessmen say, bas gradually changed from e traoquii island to a cesspool of crime and vice. Io the first six mouths of this year, 43 muggings were reported in the park—nearly triple the number during the same period last year. Arrests for the possession of drugs soared from two to 52; arrests for the sale of drugs went from Many busioessmen in the neighborhood have advised their employees to stay out of the park. At midday bun-dreds of office workers still enjoy lunch oo the broad green, but at other times it is almost exclusively the preenjoy serve of a very different group.

"It's a dangerous park," ald a groundskeeper. There's a crew in this park all they do is walk around and mug people. It goes on

'Got Another One' "I know the fellows," he went on, "I come io at eight and they'll say, "We aiready got one for a hundred dollars.' By noon, they tell me, 'We got another ooe,' and by the time I leave they've got another one. That's the way

The whole area is affected by the fear generated in the park," said Jerome Gartner, a lawyer and a member of Community Planning Board 5, which concerns itself with

"We're not just dealing with another park," he went on, "we're dealing with how unsafe the central business

haps the only solution was William Stuhlberg, the chairman of the community board, suggested that per-

to close the park But the po-lice and Parks Commissioner Rave said that the move would be surrendering to "crimical elements."

"We've got to take the park back," declared Assistant Chief Carl Ravens, who commands the police from 59th Street to the Battery.

Chief Ravens said he was convinced that he could do the job, despite manpower shortages brought on by the fiscal crisis. Instead of blitzing the park with 35 to 40 officers, as the police did in a cleanup two years ago, he has added one edditional police officer to the two usually assigned to the park. He has also ordered a force of six to 10 officers a force of sex to 10 officers to operate there whenever other duties permit.

In addition, pleinclothes mercoics agents and specialists in folling muggers are deployed in the park from fime to time.

time to time.

By far the most pleasant time in the park is the noon hour. On sunny days, the open green in the center fells with young men and women huddling together, munching sandwiches, stoping drinks and often sharing a joint of marijuana. Frisbees sail through the air. Here and there, a couple is embracing. One man and a woman have silver suncatching reflectors under their chins. Two others are playing backgammon. On the terrace, not far from the three-card monte game, several middle-aged men in business suits are hovering over chess

Sharing a beach on the terrace near 42 Street late one afternoon, Philip diCorcia and Catherine Zuber, two visitors from Boston, said the park had changed a lot since
